TIME LIMIT UP ON RUSSIA'S ULTIMATUM

Petrograd, Oct. 4 (via London, Oct. 5).—Russia's ultimatum to Bulgaria was not delivered to Premier Radoslavoff until four o'clock yesterday afternoon. This ultimatum was made officially today.

Previous advices from Petrograd were that the Russian ultimatum had been delivered on Friday and that the twenty-four hour time limit within which a reply was demanded expired yesterday. At this period did not begin in the time of the actual delivery of the ultimatum the Bulgarian government has until four o'clock this afternoon (about 9:30 a. m. New York time) in which to decide whether to adopt a policy of neutrality or to side operations he severed.

RUSSIA'S ULTIMATUM ASTONISHES GERMANY

Berlin, Oct. 5.—(By wireless to the press.) "The Russian ultimatum to Bulgaria was received here with astonishment," says the Press News Agency. "The official world was amazed that Russia, after her recent defeats on the Balkan front, should find the courage to make an aggressive move of this nature. It is simply the violation of sovereignty, of an independent diplomatist who is now in question when questioned concerning the landing of German troops at Saloniki asked the Entente Powers would they take this purpose, and that the attitude of Britain and France was like that of a man, who during a fight knocks an uninterested onlooker on the head 'until he obtains his friendship and help.'"

Kathlyn Williams in "The Carpet From Bagdad," Columbia Tomorrow.

A tale of exciting adventure in that mythical eastern country where dark skinned orientals cast a spell over the infidel, is "The Carpet from Bagdad," the adaptation of Harold MacGrath's well known story and the first Selig release through the newly formed V. L. S. E.

It is a fanciful story, but it told in a clear, concise way that makes one realize the day of big features is at hand.

There is no reason to compare this picture with "The Spoilers," save that this latter Selig feature always has stood out as an example of consistent production.

The carpet, a sacred rug, stolen from the innermost recesses of a sacred mosque and from under the eye of Mohamed, its watchful guardian, is the cause of all the trouble. Ryanne, an outcast from America, does the actual taking, but a young rug buyer and an American girl, into whose possession the trouble-maker comes, get a share of the blame.

The story is well known and needs no re-telling. On the screen it is full of action, fascinating mystery and adventure that will appeal to all classes. While in Egypt with the principals of the cast one is liable to entirely forget one's surroundings, so realistic is the effect.

Kathlyn Williams, as a young girl is very different from the stately woman we are accustomed to see. She brings her delightful personality into the story. Eugene Besserer was a surprise to me. Her portrayal of a woman crook was one of the best I have ever seen. Her beauty, coldness and indifference to her child stand out as an artistic bit of work.

Charles Clary, as the swarthy-skinned Mohamed, was the winning treacherous Egyptian to the letter. His expressive hands are a valuable asset in "getting over" character parts. Wheeler Oakman aroused much interest in the character of an American rug buyer.

Be sure and see this great five reel picture at the Columbia tomorrow; all seats 10 cents.

You will be interested in the cabinet that has no swinging doors; in the floor bin that lays down to be filled; in the bright, white and shining Porcelain table tops, in the breakfast-table attachment; in the device that permits adjustment in the height of the table-top; in the disappearing ironing board, and many other features of supreme convenience, which will be thoroughly explained and demonstrated.

Come in and see this exhibition. Know for yourself what a good kitchen cabinet should be. While we shall be glad to have you buy if you will, we are also offering this exhibition as an interesting educational opportunity.

THE BURST RESERVOIR.

There was both good and bad fortune, if it may be so expressed, in the bursting of the water works reservoir.

For many a long dreary, well nigh hopeless year, it was the dream of Portsmouth to possess a decent water service and this seemed at last realized, when the reservoir system was put in operation. Scarcely has the public become accustomed to a better service when it is most seriously imperiled by the bursting or rather the sliding out of a huge section of the reservoir on Sunday afternoon. That was the bad fortune. The good luck was in the fact that with such an immense volume of water sent suddenly surging down a steep hill and rushing over a much traveled thoroughfare, more especially on Sunday, there should be no loss of life whatsoever, and only small destruction of property.

The catastrophe is but another exhibit of the painful fatality and indifference, to characterize by no harsher term, with which public affairs have been conducted. There was an essential in the comfort and health of all the people of the city, a most vital point in a system, not constructed with that care and precaution both its importance and the conditions surrounding it made easily apparent and demanded. It was regarded unsafe both in inception and completion and though some measures were taken to overcome they have proven altogether futile. For it was work that had to be done right in the beginning and no later precautions, it now develops could have rendered it altogether secure.

A most serious problem confronts the city in repairing the damage and here again it is to be regarded as fortunate, fortunate in the fact that it has at the head of its administration such a thorough-going and painstaking mayor as the present incumbent. Whatever is done under his direction will be as well done as was poorly done before him.

A MEASURE OF SURPRISE.

The greatest surprise the automobile tourists will find in a trip to the Mississippi valley from the east is the Illinois highways. Illinois is the third state in the Union in both wealth and population, with on the whole the most productive lands and selling on an average for twice as much as those elsewhere.

Naturally one expects to find in this great and prosperous state good roads. Instead he finds bad ones and the worst from Maine to Missouri. Even that is not the worst he finds, for he soon discovers in many sections a sentiment hostile to good roads and dominant. The leading agricultural paper of the state is carrying on a campaign against better roads, its position being that in building good roads the farmer heaps a breakable burden upon himself and his future for the joy of generations to come. Many county papers are following in its wake, which is strange, indeed, considering that in those counties where opposition is strongest lands sell anywhere from $100 to $400 an acre.

It must not be supposed, however, that there is no progressive road spirit in Illinois. To the contrary, an aggressive minority is clamoring for better highways and here and there getting them.

As a conclusion of an auto trip across Illinois, from which the writer has just returned, he is more than ever convinced both of the desirability and value of good roads and of the correctness of a position long maintained by The Times, brick for trunk roads and macadam for those of lesser importance. On the way here and there, even in the country stretches of brick were passed over and they were uniformly good, showing no signs of wear. There were miles and miles of fine macadam and even some excellent gravel roads, more particularly in eastern Indiana and western Ohio, but it was evident enough that the price of these is eternal vigilance and constant repairing and grading. After each rain they showed washes and cuppings, while the brick roads were made all the more of a joy.

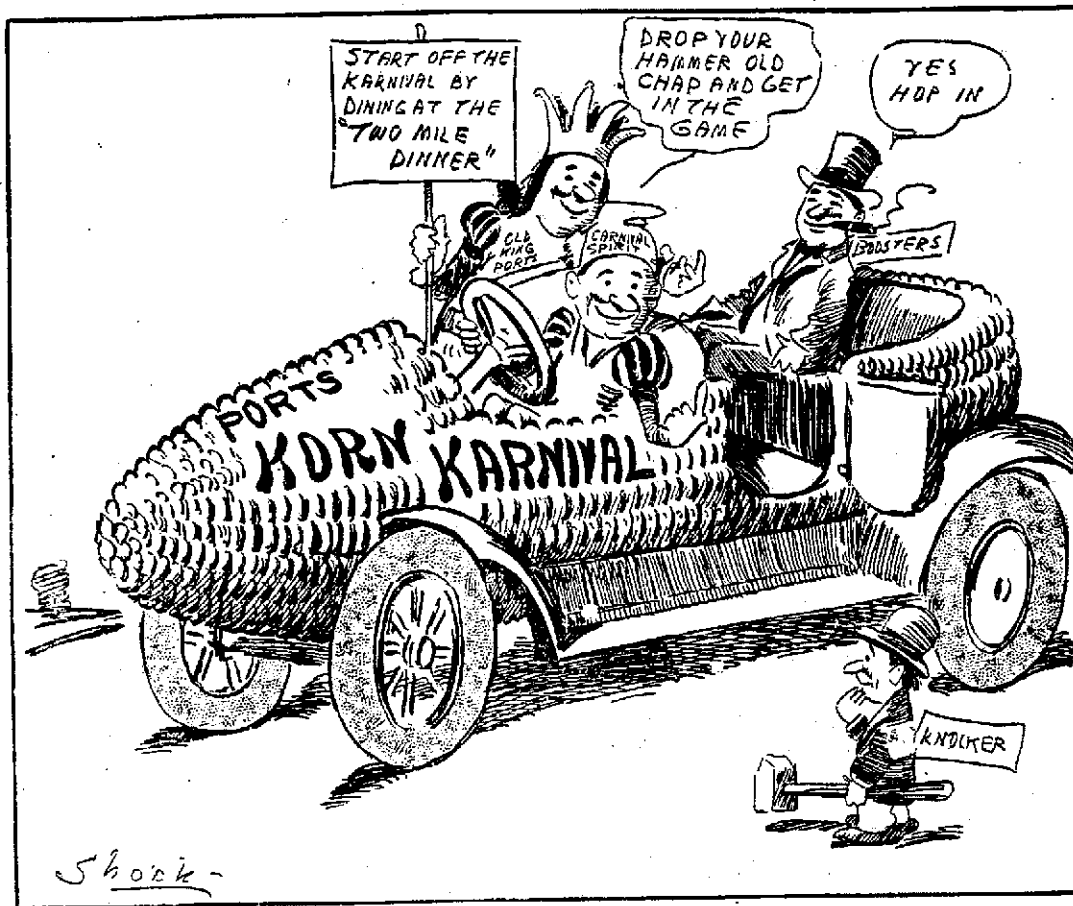

By-the-way, in one section a plan was presented that was novel and may be good—a sixteen foot section, laid half with brick and half with macadam, that is one side of brick and the other of macadam. The idea is that autos generally, and more especially in dry weather will use the brick, while wagons will mostly take to the macadam.

This returned wayfarer noted that many villages and parts of the rural districts still cling to the absurd idea that oil will make good and permanent roadways. As a matter of fact the oil runs down into the lowest places, softens the earth most there and the passing auto has to creep along, slipping and sliding, bumping and jumping first to one side of the road and then the other. The muck made is intolerable and the ruin of shoes, gowns and carpets and floors.

The spell-binder of the last campaign, who said the Republican administration had completed eighty-five per cent of the new water works system in less than two years, while a Democratic administration was not half through with fifteen per cent in more than a year, must feel like burying both himself and his remarks in the flood of waters that came down from the burst reservoir.

The Korn Carnival will begin tomorrow and you want to be in at the opening, of course.

READY TO START

On their trip into constitutionally dry Tennessee the Ohio legislators voted two to one against the McDermott liquor bill, which they themselves had passed under whip and spur, applied by Governor Willis. Was it what they saw in Tennessee, or the secret ballot that marked the sheet?

Of course, it was a great honor for our good young governor to make to a negro editor his first announcement that he was a candidate for president, but we opine what the colored men and brothers want first and most to know is where are dem state jobs?

Our unalterable opinion is that a good road is worth even the price of a temporary road.

All sorts of compliments are being paid The Times for its Korn Carnival edition. We'll admit it was some achievement and a bit of work, but worth while all around.

The reports from the east gives support to the axiom that he who runs away lives to fight another day.

A nice, respectable man, like Mr. Garford, ought not to say such unkind things about the administration of our good young governor.

So far as our observation goes the chief point about that famous proclaimed drive of the Altes is that it doesn't drive anything.

May be it wouldn't be a bad idea to embargo Chillicothe street to automobiles during Korn Carnival week.

The Czar is sending 600,000 of his fleetest runners down to the borders of Bulgaria.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.

O.O. MCINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 5.—A Chinese Jim Brady is in our city illuminating the dark places and causing the good citizens to wonder what they will be seeing next. The Chinese Diamond Jim came in from Havana the other day. He had changed his name to Edulano Aton for business purposes and spoke French fluently.

He has abolished the Chinese clothes and taken to military uniforms with a sprinkling of gems all around. The uniform consisted of immaculate white trousers, creased to a razor edge, a white military jacket with gold buttons, topped by sky blue epaulettes smothered in gold braid.

He wore a white military cap of Russian type, also bedecked with gold braid and a gold shield full of diamonds. His shoes were white and his manner haughty and dignified.

Harold, one of Sabary-Djeli's trained prayer rugs, went mad during a rehearsal at the Winter Garden yesterday and hit the stage director. Owing to the severity surrounding the affair, reporters have not learned if the director was bitten between the lobby and the proscenium or behind the scenes.

Sabary is the gink who comes from Persia and wouldn't set her foot on American soil. She had some Persian soil in a box with her and they carried her to her hotel in this box. It's a poor dancer anyway who can't carry her own soil. Soil is quite cheap.

F. Dana Burnet is a young poet from Cincinnati. He came to New York unheralded and unsung, but soon had Park Row paying attention to him. He joined the staff of the Evening Sun and in a short time was breaking into the magazines.

Not long ago a book of his poems was published and now he is awfully afraid that someone will find out his first name is Frink.

Verne Hardin Porter has been forced into song writing. Porter is the Broadway story teller for a group of western magazines. Several months ago he found himself needing some ready cash. He tried scenario writing on the side and found that his only trouble was they wouldn't sell.

He was talking to Irving Berlin, who graduated from a Chinatown dance hall to easy affluence by song writing. "Why don't you try writing lyrics?" Berlin asked him. No sooner said than done. That night found Porter lying his way to fame. His first song was: "Gee How I Can Love."

Harry Fox and Yansel Dolly, two popular vaudeville stars, liked the song and in a few days were singing it. And now it looks to Porter like something really has happened, or else it hasn't. That's psychology.

To keep the memory of their dead father fresh and lasting in the minds of her two little sons, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a widow, since her husband perished on the Lusitania, has personally directed the making of a bronze bust of Vanderbilt. It will be installed in the New York home.

The likeness, she has told her friends at Lenox, Mass., is so remarkable that in looking at it she often has the impression of seeing her husband alive and about to speak.

Caroline Selarrino Pietro, noted for his bronze sculptures of General Booth, former President Taft, Mrs. Finley J. Shephard and Enrico Caruso, has made a model in plasterine from which the bronze will be cast. At a recent exhibition in the Rheinhart galleries for the Friends of Young Artists, he was represented by a group entitled "War."

Broadway hears that E. H. Sotherton is becoming a matinee idol over in Washington.

How Much A Man Is Like Old Shoes

For instance, both a sole may lose. Both have been tanned, both are made tight. By cobblers, both get left and right. Both need a mate to be complete. And both were made to go feet. With shoes, the last is first, with man. The first shall be last, and when the shoes Wear out they're men dead, too. They both need healing, off are sold. And both in time turn all to mold. They both are trod upon and both Will tread on others, nothing loathe. Both have their ties and both incline. When polished, in the world to shine. They both peg out and would you choose To be a man or be his shoes? —Brooklyn Eagle.

An Ethical Question

A certain (Rev.) minister of the Gospel was in a garage at Litch Sunday having work done on his car, at the same time critic-ing the farmers for working in their beans on the Sabbath day. After his departure it was remarked, which was the worse, a farmer trying to save his crops or a preacher sending two men to Hell by hiring them to work for him on the Sabbath day. No Flies on Capt. Johnny Dock

Capt. Johnny Dock, Platte Chief, formerly of Hawthorne, but now a substantial citizen of Schurz, was in town Monday and favored the Bulletin with a call. He said: "Oh, yes, I got a ranch at Schurz. My mother and father he's dead, but I got a brother and his wife and his children. And I got a wife and children too. Cost like hell feed them all. Sometimes cost me $16 a month for grub. But I don't care for that. I work hard and make money. I'm different most Platte. I'm high class, educated Indian. I talk all government officers and inspectors, and they say to me like that, Johnny Dock, you pretty dam smart. Well, so long. How's your wife?" Hawthorne (Nev.) Bulletin.

Big Hunt Is Over, Coming For Carnival

The Times is in receipt of a letter from Charles S. Barnes, prominent farmer of near Sargents, in which he writes that he has just concluded an enjoyable hunt for the game in the vicinity of Bonanza, Wyoming. He was successful in landing the limit of elk.

The letter was written last Wednesday, and Mr. Barnes stated that it had rained constantly for three days before that date. The Hoback Basin was covered with about two inches of snow. Mr. Barnes is on his way home, and expects to arrive in time to take in the Korn Carnival.

Bill, The Man

An open letter through The Times to W. R. Graham.

(Emma M. Duveneck)

We women who have married Bill. Demand of you redress. The worry you have caused us. No matter what you guess. We met in indignation. We flattered and we talked. We caressed and we criticized. But we never, never balked. In thinking you had wronged us. You poor misguided man. In placing your Five Dollar Bill before our Bill, the man. You've slapped our bills smack in the face. Don't it if you can. When you boost your old Five Dollar Bill. And ignore our good Bill man. You've slandered our historic bills. Great poets, Bills of fame. Explorers, navigators. Why—can't you put them all to shame? You boast your old Five Dollar Bill. It seems before our face.

We must stand pat for our good Bill. If we would win re-own. Then cheer and shout and huzzah.

It means much for our town. Now, you see you're up against it. Get busy while you can. Place your old Five Dollar Bill. And best on Bill the man. For we women know who man? Bills. In our declining years. We'll always have Five Dollar Bills. To soothe away our fears. Chorus. Then Hurrah! Hurrah! They are the chaps. Who always lead the van. You've lost your old Five Dollar Bill. But give us Bill the man!

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Oct. 5.—For the first time in over a fortnight gains gave way to losses at the outset of today's trading. The heavy selling to yesterday's late operations was resumed though declines were more orderly than advance had been. American Car and Foundry was offered down to 84 on an initial sale of 4,000 shares, an overnight loss of 6 1/4 points, on denial of some recent "war contract" rumors. Lackawanna Steel dropped 4 to 83 and Crucible Steel 3 to 109 1/2. Others of this class yielded 1 to 2 points. Among the early features of strength were New York Central, Union Pacific, Reading, Baldwin Locomotive, Industrial Alcohol and Wills-Overland.

There was a rally from the early low level, the stronger tone of the railways being a helpful factor but recoveries were only temporary, some prominent shares going lower. According to reports many weak accounts were closed in the course of the morning. It was evident, not only from the marked decline of business but from other signs that speculative elements were exercising restraint partly of an enforced character. Before midday, however, the market again became active with general improvement in virtually all parts of the lists. Bonds were irregular.

Some recoveries from the early afternoon's break were made. Bethlehem Steel scoring the new high price of $100 1/4, but in the final hour a more impressive selling movement sent prices lower than before. The closing was heavy.

Proof of the market's unsettled condition was seen today, when rumors of an accident to an American warship resulted in perpendicular declines of 5 to 15 points. Many weak accounts were eliminated.

CHICAGO GRAIN

AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Bullish cables led to a fresh upturn today in the wheat market here. Liverpool reported prices advancing and British millers anxious. Besides, estimates of the French crop shortage were raised to 100,000,000 bushels. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to half higher prices, with December at 95 1/2 to 99 1/2 and May at 91 1/2 to 94 1/2, was followed by a slight reaction and then a decided general advance. Reports of freezing temperature and crop damage in Nebraska and Iowa put strength into corn. There were also predictions of more frost tonight. After opening unchanged to 1/4 to 1/2 higher, the market hesitated a little and then began to climb. Oats sympathized with corn. Fluctuations, though, were narrow. Provisions, followed the hog market up grade. Packers were on the buying side and there was a further good cash demand for meats.

Decidedly higher prices were scored later. It was said an immense domestic and export business was being done and case meats and lard.

Liberal buying orders that were subscribed to Wall Street led afterward to additional gains. The market was also affected by a falling off in receipts Northwest, but pressure of Canadian wheat at Minneapolis brought about reaction. The close was unsettled at 1 1/4 net advance with December at 99 1/2 and May at $1.00 1/4.

Slowness of eastern inquiry tended later to cause a downturn. The close was steady, 1/4 to 3/4 about yesterday's close.

Sneak Thief Strips Room Of Valuables

The room of Dyer McCoy, a mill man, at the West End hotel, was completely stripped of his personal belongings by a sneak thief Tuesday morning.

A new $15 suit of clothes, two pairs of shoes, one of which was taken by the robber in exchange for his old shoes, and other wearing apparel to the value of about $30 were stolen. The theft occurred while McCoy was at work and a stranger, who was noticed about the hotel, is suspected.

SEEK TO EXTERMINATE ARMENIANS IN TURKEY

New York, Oct. 5.—The Turks and Kurds are waging a holy war of extermination on the Armenians, according to sixteen members of the American board of foreign missions who arrived from Van, Turkey, on the Swedish steamer Hellig Olav today. Ernest Yarrow, one of the missionaries told how the Armenian population of Van numbering 1,500 held out against 15,000 Kurds and Turkish company commanded by a German officer from April to May 17, when Russians arrived and relieved the town. "We had six American and two Red Cross flags," said Mr. Yarrow, "and we flew these over the mission, but they were not respected by either of the combatants. The Turkish company arrived three or four days before the Russian relief came, and the shrapnel from the Turk guns tore down all of our flags. "We sheltered large numbers of Armenian women and children, but as soon as the Turks and Kurds had been driven away from the town virtually all of the Armenians turned out to loot the Turkish houses and duplicated the atrocities that had previously been practiced upon the Armenians. It was with great difficulty that they were restrained. "The Turks and Kurds have declared a holy war against the Armenians and vowed to exterminate them. The population of Van was poorly armed and were forced to use brass and copper trinkets to make bullets. Three small cannon were made of scrap metal. The supplies of ammunition were running short and the Russians arrived just in time to save the Armenians from being wiped out." Mr. Yarrow confirmed all the reports of the outrages which have reached the United States and said only a portion of the real story had been told.

PHILLIES TO CLOSE THEIR SEASON TODAY

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—The National League champions close their regular schedule today by meeting in Brooklyn in two contests, and the next two days will be employed in getting the grounds and players in readiness for the opening of the World's Series on Friday. It will be the first time in the history of the park that so many reservations were needed. There has been so much speculation regarding the respective strength of the two teams and the wide diversity of opinion as to whether the Phillies or the Boston Americans will be the victors in the series that the club and Philadelphia fans alike feel highly elated over the fact that President Wilson will be present at the second game of the series on Saturday.

MORE OF THE RESERVOIR SAID TO BE IN DANGER

Total Damage Bill From The Break In Reservoir Will Be Under $20,000 Is Estimated

William Gergens, director of public service, was requested by Mayor Frick, Tuesday, to officially notify the J. F. Witmer Company, designing engineers, and Curtis Shumway, erecting contractors, of existing conditions at the reservoir and advise them to get on the ground at the very earliest possible moment and arrange to replace the damage there.

Just who will have to bear the loss caused by the reservoir wall washout will probably have to be determined by the courts. While not doing any talking for publication, Contractor Milton H. Shumway is known to hold that his firm is not at fault. He is expected to contend that there have been various causes for the washout, that he was opposed to resting the wall on a newly made fill, but that he followed specifications, then too, the continued use of the storage basin made necessary by changes and adjustment of the pumping equipment at the pumping station, prevented him, and delayed him all summer in tightening up the basin and completing his contract work.

"The city is in no way obligated to stand a nickel of that expense," declared Mayor Adam Frick Tuesday when asked who in his opinion would have to bear the expense of restoring the wall and make good all property damage suffered by the various persons in the vicinity of the hill.

"The only one point involved is whether or not the construction work was according to specifications and it is clear to my mind that it was not," added the mayor. Continuing he said: "The specifications provided that the floor was to be six inches thick, whereas it is in places not over two or three inches. Then, too, there was insufficient reinforcement. Had the bottom been properly solidified, the reservoir would have stood, but as it was it would not hold water and undamaged itself."

The mayor thought that it was entirely up to the contractors to restore the wall and estimated that the cost would be from $12,000 to $15,000. Engineer W. J. Watson estimated roughly that it would require between 7,000 and 8,000 yards of sand and gravel to be turned into concrete to repair the break.

Other city officials whose opinions were asked as to who would be held responsible, thought it was not for the city to say, inasmuch as the work had not yet been accepted by the city, and the contractor's bondsmen never released. They took the stand that the contractors should be allowed to present their case first.

City Solicitor Stanley McCall declined to be interviewed on the subject until he had first thoroughly gone into the various questions involved.

Thomas J. Basham, who is perhaps the heaviest property loser, he owning all three houses that were wrecked, said Tuesday that he would not think of placing the figure lower than $1,000. His meadow was completely devastated and filled with rock and huge concrete slabs. The tenants and small farm owners who also suffered from the washout, are expected to bring the aggregate loss exclusive of the reservoir damage, up to $2,000 or $2,500. One man named Fields, is demanding $75 for the loss of his one acre corn crop, he renting a place there belonging to a brick company at $1 per month.

KORN KARNIVAL

kind. Every day is a big day, with the first day as spectacular as any of the three to follow. The necessary punch to make the Karnival a huge success will be given on the first day, and interest will be maintained until the curtain is rung down Saturday night.

TWO MILE DINNER FIRST EVENT

The opening feature, the "Two Mile Dinner" is a departure from the usual run of features common to such attractions, and it promises to be one of the greatest events of the week.

Early tomorrow morning, tables will be spread out, Washington street from Second to Seventh street, with opening for street intersections, on Sixth street from Court street to Chillicothe street, and on Fourth street from Washington to Court.

Eight church societies, each representing a different local church, will serve the dinner, each having been assigned one block. A uniform menu, consisting of a meat sandwich, baked potatoes, potato salad, pie and coffee.

Prospective diners are urged to be at their places as near as possible to 11:30, so that the dinner can start on scheduled time.

Promptly at 11:45 o'clock whistles over the city will blow, and bells will ring, as a signal for the big community love feast to start. Ladies from the different churches will be ready to start at the first signal, and all tables will be served at once.

Places will be reserved for diners on both sides of the table, and they will eat, standing. Over two thousand tickets have been sold, insuring a tremendous crowd.

BANDS WILL PLAY AND CAMERA WILL BE BUSY

Brass bands will march up and down the streets of the dinner while it is being served, playing inspiring music.

Motion pictures for Pathé's during the next few months.

LOCATION OF THE CHURCH DINNERS

Churches taking part in the two-mile dinner are: First Christian, Second to Third streets; Fourth Street M. E., Third to Fourth street; Bigelow M. E., Fourth to Fifth; German Evangelical, Fifth to Sixth; Mumly M. E., Sixth to Seventh; First Presbyterian, Sixth street, Washington to Chillicothe; Holy Redeemer, Sixth street, Washington to Court; All Saints Episcopal, Fourth street, Washington to Court.

While none of the promoters think of rain or bad weather in connection, still as a precaution all churches have arranged to serve the holders of their tickets in a sheltered place, the majority of them having arranged to use the basements of their churches. The weather report almost insures fair weather.

BOOSTERS WILL PARADE AT NIGHT

The other crowning feature of the opening day of the Karnival is the Boosters' Parade, which will start promptly at 7:15 o'clock from Gallia and Offshore streets.

Reports from the marshals and aides in charge of the various divisions indicate that the Boosters' Parade will be the longest parade in the history of the city, and probably the longest and most spectacular parade of the entire Karnival.

OFFICERS OF THE PARADE

Grand Marshal Marting will have as his aides, L. F. Lennon and Frank Sheridan. Division Number One in charge

Distel, aide, is the official division of the parade, and will include the full police and fire departments, the city, county and federal officials, and the hospital nurses. Employees of the B. & O. S. W., N. & W. and the Portsmouth Steel Company will compose Division Number Three, marshaled by C. L. Cheyney, with Lester Howard as aide. The Portsmouth Band will head this division, which will form on north side of Gallia, east of Lincoln.

Division Number Four, E. C. Hood marshal, and Joseph Kountz aide, will form on Seventh street, between Offshore and Lincoln. It will include the employees of the Times Publishing Company, the Morning Star, Publishing Company, the Kah-Patterson Co., the Keystone Press and the laundries.

Henry Bertram aide.

Division Number Nine will be headed by the Buckeye State band with retailers and allied industries and their employees in line. John McMillan is marshal and Henry Winter and H. S. Hutchins aides, of this division, which will form on Eighth street, east of Lincoln.

The Tenth Division includes all private automobiles, motorcycles and bicycles, with Geo. McMahon, marshal and Bruntton, Brunner and McNeer aides. It will form on Fifth street, west and east of Lincoln.

The line of march will be west on Gallia to Chillicothe, north on Chillicothe to Eighth, west on Eighth to Washington, south on Washington to Fifth, east on Fifth to Chillicothe, south on Chillicothe to Second, west on Second to Market, north on Market to Fifth, east on Fifth to Court, north on Court to Ninth, east on Ninth to Offshore where it will disband.

AVOID THE CONGESTED SPOTS

Persons desiring a good view of the parade are advised to shun the congested Karnival district, and station themselves at advantageous points along the line of march.

To the above two features can be added the five stellar free attractions, which will show twice daily, at the times and places noted in the official day's program. These five acts are: The Foresters' Trained Roosters, the Ruth Howell Trio, high class novelty gymnasts; Leo Earl, the high wire artist; Leroy and Paul, sensational horizontal bar act, and Jack Richards, equilibrist and up side down dancer.

All of the Karnival booths will have been constructed and decorated by Wednesday noon, the city will be gorgeously decorated, and the streets and booths brilliantly lighted at night time. The Elks' Indoor Fair will also be on in full blast, insuring a diversified entertainment that has never been equalled in this section of the country.

BERNSTORFF PROMISES

of the negotiations. It was indicated that the wishes of the United States had been met.

The ambassador who has been empowered by the Berlin foreign office to conduct final negotiations not only over the sinking of the Arabic but in the entire submarine controversy between Germany and the United States has presented a memorandum which while meeting the views of the United States in a large degree does not go far enough to satisfy the contention of the state department. Germany, it is understood, while admitting the submarine commander erred when he sank the Arabic on the theory that the liner was about to attack the submarine, does not disavow the act. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing feel that a disavowal must be forthcoming before negotiations can proceed further.

The ambassador talked less than a half hour with Secretary Lansing.

"Oh, everything is all right," he said as he came, smiling, from Secretary Lansing's office. "I cannot throw light on the subject," he added. "I would rather have any light come from Secretary Lansing. Anything must come from him."

"How soon do you expect something definite regarding the Arabic?" he was asked.

"I am not 'expecting' anything," he replied, as he drove away to the embassy.

Secretary Lansing indicated there might be some public announcement possibly within twenty-four hours. He regarded today's conference as a continuation of the conversation between the ambassador and himself and that there might be another conversation soon. The ambassador is expected to remain in Washington for the present.

Whether there would be any further communication from Berlin as a preliminary to a public announcement was not disclosed today by either state department officials or by the ambassador. Upon Count von Bernstorff's arrival at the embassy he denied himself to callers and was closeted with his confidential clerks. Apparently some cipher messages were being prepared to go forward to the Berlin foreign office. The American government has previously afforded the ambassador the best facilities for communicating with his government.

Officials Favor An Auxiliary Basin In New Location

Speedy restitution of all damage suffered by persons through the washout of the east wall of the reservoir Sunday afternoon is advocated by Mayor Adam Frick.

The mayor has called upon Curtis & Shumway, contractors, to send a man over the route where the water and earthwork passed from the hill to the lake and make a careful estimate of the damage done to property, crops, lands, buildings and other equipment to the end that those who suffered loss through the reservoir break may be properly taken care of.

Definite steps towards restoring the collapsed wall are expected to be taken immediately after the return to Portsmouth of Engineers J. F. Witmer and W. L. Watson, who have been attending court at Charleston, W. Va., as expert witnesses in a case there.

More of Reservoir Is Imperiled

Mayor Frick again visited the reservoir Monday afternoon and found that the wall and roof were in danger of further collapse for a distance of about 75 ft. from the opening where the wall floor and roof went out. Regrettably was the break, said the mayor, he was glad in a way that it happened just when it did without any loss of life. Had the break occurred at night whole families would have been wiped out. Then too it revealed the weakness of the structure in time for it to be properly corrected.

Vice Mayor W. E. Cook and Chief Engineer John Hermann of the water works, both favor the same kind of a plan in regard to restoring the reservoir to use.

The two officials believe it fully to reconstruct the corner of the basin that went out owing to the fall and danger of slides at that point and therefore would reduce the size and capacity of the storage basin by drawing in three sides and having the whole structure placed on a solid base.

For New Reservoir

They favor the building of a second reservoir nearer the city in Brewery Hollow or in the hills to the north of the city, where many natural locations for a reservoir are to be found and provide a duplicate feeding line. In their opinion the city is bound to grow to a population of 50,000 within the next ten years and the present reservoir will not be ample to meet the needs of a city of such size.

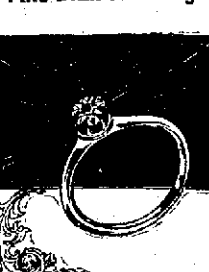

The break did not come as much of a surprise to the residents of School Land Hollow, watching as they have been the occasional leaks of the storage basin. The various sides of the hill are almost constantly moist and slips follow every heavy rain.

Rev. William Madden had just gotten through predicting that the reservoir would not hold for a year when the break occurred. He and family and William Sparks and family had just returned from services at the little Christian church up the hollow and were looking in the direction of the reservoir when he made the remark after noticing a steady flow of water coming down the hillside. Then came the deafening roar and on-rush of waters and the two families, terrified at the sight, fled for their lives, camping on the hills for a half hour. When they returned they found their home had escaped the fury of the water. Mrs. Madden saw two little boys climbing up the hillside on their hands and knees and feared that they had drowned but later learned that they were Lee Cooley's sons and had reached home safely.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER TO WHOLE CITY

Turn yourself loose, and help make the 1915 Carnival the most notable event in the history of Portsmouth. The stage is set, the crowds are coming, the attractions are ready and the weather man has promised unqualified, ideal weather for the Carnival.

val days. With a combination like that Portsmouth is in the right shape to outdo herself.

On the eve of the Carnival it will be well to remember that two things: First—The far-seeing business men behind the Carnival are playing for a big stake—the future prosperity of the Portsmouth community. Briefly, it is like this. It is estimated there are about 70,000 acres of cultivated land in Scioto county. If the yield per acre is increased $5 that means $350,000 added to the yearly revenue of the community. Worth while thinking about isn't it? Likewise there are at least 35,000 additional acres suitable for raising fruit, the finest fruit raised anywhere. If each of these 35,000 acres were to produce $10 a year in fruit, that would mean another $350,000 additional revenue. Put that down and reflect over it, too. Dr. W. J. Keyes is authority for the statement that many acres are already being set in fruit trees as the result of Kern Carnival agitation and advertisements. Others claim that already the average yield of the farms in the county has been increased at least $3 per acre in the past three years.

That's what the Carnivals are doing.

Now for the second thing to remember:

The progressive men of Portsmouth, the retailers, the wholesalers and the manufacturers are giving these Carnivals free of charge. The amusements, the parades, etc., are all without cost to those who see them, all paid for by the Portsmouth live wires. That being so, don't you think you owe it to them to buy every cent's worth of goods at home, and to impress upon all Carnival visitors that Portsmouth stores are the best places for real bargains? You can do your share by assisting Portsmouth merchants to make this a good business week.

Will You?

SECURITY SAVINGS BANK BIDS HIGH ON FLOOD WALL BONDS

The Security Savings bank, of Portsmouth, submitted the successful bid for the purchase of the $75,000 "Levee and Embankment" or "Flood Wall" bonds, sealed proposals for which were opened at the city building Tuesday noon.

The Security's bid was $425.00. Other bids received were the following: Otis & Co., of Cleveland, $430; Spitzer, Rorich & Co., of Toledo, $431; First National bank, of Portsmouth, $74; Fifth-Third National bank, of Cincinnati, $56; The Portsmouth Banking company, of this city, $51.

Outside of the big cities it is the only 1-2 per cent bond issue sold recently. The bonds will mature as follows:

25 bonds $14,000 September 1, 1920.

25 bonds $14,000 September 1, 1921.

25 bonds $14,000 September 1, 1922.

25 bonds $14,000 September 1, 1923.

25 bonds $14,000 September 1, 1924.

The city council finance committee will recommend the sale of the issue to the Security bank at Wednesday night's meeting of council.

City Engineer George S. Wilcox has completed the specifications for the proposed extension of the flood wall from Chillicothe to Offshore street and his estimates indicate that both that improvement and the restoration of Scioto Point can be built inside the $70,000 appropriation.

TO BUY GRASSMAN LOT FOR NEW CHURCH SITE

At the regular monthly meeting of the official board of the Fourth Street M. E. church Monday evening, it was unanimously decided to purchase the Grassman lot at the southeast corner of Logan street and Franklin avenue as a site for the new church, to replace the present church home. The congregation has an option on the property.

While the finance committee has not completed its task of raising funds, its report at the meeting was so encouraging that the members of the official board felt that they were warranted in making the purchase.

A committee, consisting of Edward Bremer, Louis Clausen and Rev. Albert Marting, was appointed to consult with architects and secure prospective plans for the new church. Work on the new structure will be started as soon as all of the preliminaries can be arranged.

The finance committee, composed of E. L. Marting, Wesley Grier, George Youngman, J. M. Wendelken and Rev. Albert Marting, will continue its work on an active scale. All money received from the sale of the church property at Fourth and Washington streets and the parsonage on Sixth street, will be applied on the new church fund.

A number of offers have already been received for the two properties, and the congregation will have but little trouble in disposing of them. The present church building will probably be torn down and the available material used in the new building.

NEAR VICTIM

Crockett Meade, a B. & O. S.-W. car inspector, is wondering if he was the near-victim of a would-be assassin's erring aim, or some stray bullet, for he came dangerously near being shot Monday morning.

Meade was returning from Sciotoville on his railroad velocipede when as he was passing a point midway between that village and Star Yard, a section of air-hose was shot from underneath him. He was almost knocked from the car. A freight train was passing at the time and Meade was unable to tell, because of its noise, from which direction the bullet came.

It entered the hose on which he had been sitting at one end, passing through the wall of the hose and lodging within a few inches of the other end. It was a steel-jacketed bullet. Meade did not remember just in what position he had placed the hose, and this, too, made it impossible to determine the direction from which the bullet had been fired towards him. Meade resides on Market street, near Fifth.

City council will probably meet at the regular hour for convening, 7 o'clock, Wednesday evening, then adjourn until after the Boosters' parade.

The approval of the $70,000 flood wall bond sale and the ap-

Service will be reported completed on Linden avenue and Armstrong place and council will likely authorize the advertising of bids also for these two street improvements.

OLD AND NEW WAY TO TREAT CATARRH

Breathing a Germ Killing Air Endorsed By Actual Results

The discovery of Hyonol has wrought a wonderful change in the treatment of catarrh.

Prior to three years ago the medicines ordinarily employed in the cure of this disease were drugs, sprays, lotions, etc., in some instances they benefited, but the improvement was not lasting.

With Hyonol you take into the air passages of your throat and head a balsamic air that goes into the minutest cells, and should effectively kill all germs and microbes of catarrh. Its purpose is to enter the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood, and restore health to the whole system. Many astonishing testimonials have been received from those who have been helped by Hyonol.

A complete outfit is inexpensive and includes an Inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyonol for several weeks' treatment.

Perhaps the strongest evidence that can be given to doubters, is the fact that Hyonol Bros., have so much faith in Hyonol that they sell every package under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve.

Now is the time to begin the use of Hyonol and rid yourself of this serious and oftentimes dangerous disease. Nothing is gained by waiting till the vicious microbes of catarrh have made still further inroads on your health.

Does Your Stomach Contain a Glassful Of Acid?

Indigestion and Sour Stomach Caused By Dangerous Stomach Acids. Dissolve The Acid And Distress Will Stop

MAKES DIGESTION EASY

If you held a teaspoonful of hydrochloric acid in your mouth for only a second you would not be surprised at its burning and inflaming the tissues yet it is said that a large percentage of the people who suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia do so with a glassful or more of this powerful acid in their stomachs. Undoubtedly, the burning and sour rising, why most foods don't agree with them and why their meals won't digest without pain.

Putting food in an acid stomach invariably causes distress because the stomach acids mixing with the fresh food cause them to ferment and sour and form more acid which irritates, distends and inflames the tender stomach lining. Acid stomachs are decidedly dangerous but can be corrected either by adhering to a strict diet, which is usually inconvenient, or by following the easier plan of taking a teaspoonful of liquid magnesia in a quart glassful of water after meals. Liquid magnesia dissolves or neutralizes the acids in the stomach, sweetens the food contents, stops or prevents all the annoying distress and pain and the most digestible naturally and easily. This plan is far better than forming the digestive juices for it allows the stomach to do its own work as nature intended. As magnesia is sold in various forms and for different purposes, by Fisher and Strech or any druggists, be sure to make your druggist give you liquid magnesia which is the form we recommend for this purpose.

LIFE SEEMS WORTH WHILE, WITH RETURNING HEALTH, SAYS PORTSMOUTH WOMAN

Another enthusiastic statement regarding the "Master Medicine". Numberless women who have suffered from nervous headaches, which were like the torture of the "wreck", also those afflicted with disordered stomach, catarrh and kindred ailments, are truly thankful for Tanlac, the new medicine.

"I have suffered greatly," says Mrs. J. E. Burton, of 1759 11th St., Portsmouth, "from catarrh of the head and indigestion, and nothing has given me the relief that Tanlac has. This medicine has proven a blessing to me."

Mrs. Burton is one of the thousands of grateful people who are praising this wonderful remedy, which is proving so successful in instances of stomach derangement, catarrh of the mucous membranes, liver and kidney complaints.

During the Portsmouth Korn Carnival especially, corner Sixth and Chillicothe Sts., will be known as "Tanlac Corner", for it is at this corner that the Fisher & Strech Pharmacy is located, which firm is the agent for Tanlac.

It is planned to have all preliminaries concluded so that building can be begun in the early Spring.

The Sanitary Removable Front of the New Roll Door Hoosier

Like most wonderful inventions, this new Kitchen Cabinet is so simple that you will wonder why no one discovered it before.

Yet, makers have experimented for ten years to produce it. Hoosier triumphs again with the only kitchen cabinet that has roll doors which are sanitary and removable.

No Partitions

Note the entire absence of cubby holes or dirt breeding pockets. As on all Hoosier Cabinets the space of the cupboard is free of partitions. The doors slide in an ingeniously contrived channel which is open and easy to clean. A simple motion removes the doors and a whisk broom or cloth dusts out the channel completely. You will recognize all the other features that make the Hoosier Cabinet famous.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, O. Office Phone 80.

Rocky Mount, N. C.—Dear Miss Wise.—Might not the press prevail upon the out-of-town people who visit relatives and friends in Portsmouth while attending the Korn Carnival to eat their meals at the booths on the streets as far as possible. One of the problems from everywhere round in at Mrs. So and So's for three meals a day. Mrs. So and So does all her own work. By the time she gets three meals and the work done up it is like this: "I'm too tired to go today will go tomorrow, etc." all through K. K. time. The expense of such company-boarders is a problem in many cases and in no case does company ever help with the work.

THANK YOU.

Dear Dolly.—I want you to tell me what you think about this. I have been going with a certain young man for quite a while, and I think a great deal of him, but some of my girl acquaintances tell me that he "flirts" with, and makes love to other girls. I want to believe him when he tells me that he does not do so and that he loves no one but me. Now, Dolly, does he really love me or is he just "flirting" with me, as the girls say he is with others.

"LITTLE TEXAS." If the young man treats you all right, do not pay any attention to what your girl friends tell you. They are probably jealous 'cause you have a beau. If he didn't care for you he wouldn't go with you.

Dear Dolly.—My nose looks like a peeled onion or a china egg all the time. What can I do for it?

Carry a powder puff with you and powder your nose when you feel that people are using it for a looking glass. That's what the girls do for a shiny nose.

Dear Dolly.—I never miss a night in reading the answer and question column. I want to ask you a few questions. What will keep my stomach from rumbling? It rumbles if I don't eat anything and if I do, also. It is very embarrassing. MAUD.

Take a deep breath for two and a thing your stomach will behave. Or you might try drinking a glass of cold water if there is any handy when the rumblings begin.

London, O.—Dear Dolly.—I have come to you for a little advice. I have been going with a young man for over a year, he has never given me a ring. He is so jealous of me when he has no reason to be. I have been away six weeks now on a visit, and he has never written me but twice. Hasn't written me now for over three weeks. I am always prompt about answering his letters. Do you really think he loves me? I used to love him very much, but here of late I don't care so much for him. There is another nice young fellow that has asked me several times for a date, but I have refused him just on his account. What will I do? I know this fellow would show me a good time, as he is so nice to me. Please advise me. A. BRUNETTE.

If he answers your last letter wait just as long or a little longer than he did before you answer it, or if you want to drop him do not answer it at all. It might be a good idea to go with the other man occasionally as it looks as though your would-be fiancé was only "fooling with you."

Dear Miss Wise.—We are two elums 17 and 16 years, respectively, and are said to be good looking. Now Dolly, we would love to have a steady fellow and what it takes to get them we have got it, and do you think we are old enough to go with the fellows?

TWO KIDS.

You are too young to have steady. Would advise you to study your spelling book instead of wasting your time thinking about the boys.

Dear Dolly Wise.—Will you please answer me a few questions. What day of the week did the 12th of April come on in 1859, and on what day was the total eclipse visible in August, 1869? I was 10 years old when it happened, but I don't remember the date. I love to read your column in The Times. What do you think of my writing and spelling, as I never went to school but three months in my life. I never learned to write my name in school. As this is my first letter, will you please answer it? Yours with respect.

J. H. C. Hilltop.

April 12, 1859, was Tuesday. I do not remember anything about the eclipse as that was long before my time. Probably some reader can tell you. Your writing and spelling are both good.

DEFENDS U. S. COAST FROM 'HOSTILE' FLEET

Washington, Oct. 5.—Admiral Fletcher's Atlantic fleet of battle-ships was engaged today in defending the coast from Maine to Florida against a hostile force under Vice Admiral Mayo. This was the beginning of a ten days' war game which had been planned on a more extensive scale than ever before attempted by the United States navy. Practically every available vessel on the active list was participating.

The hostile fleet designated as the "red" put to sea from Newport, R. I., and the other "blue" steamed from Hampton Roads yesterday. Admiral Fletcher's objective was to prevent the "red" fleet from effecting an entrance to any port.

In the defending fleet were eight dreadnaughts and four pre-dreadnaughts. Vice Admiral Mayo's fleet was composed of swift cruisers and vessels of similar type. Submarines and mines were to play an important part in the maneuvers, theoretical mine fields having been established at strategic points along the Atlantic coast.

The progress of the operations will be kept secret because of the desire of the war college to work out a scheme of national defense.

MILITARY PACT LINKS TEUTONS AND BULGARS

Milan, Oct. 4.—(Via Parks, Oct. 5.—A military convention was signed between Bulgaria, Germany and Austria, some time ago, according to a Sofia dispatch to the Corriere Della Sera.

By the terms of this treaty, the dispatch asserts, the Bulgarian army is bound to attack Serbia with six divisions in the Nish-Piot section and to send Macedonian troops to Vardar to destroy railroad communication with Saloniki thus delaying the Allies in their efforts to aid Serbia.

Constantinople Is Sold By Young Turks

Paris, Oct. 5.—Gen. Mehmed Oberist Pasha, one of the leaders of the radical Turkish party, writing in the Matin, affirms that the young Turks have sold Constantinople to Bulgaria with the pledge of receiving in exchange Russia's Asiatic possessions, Egypt and all of North Africa, always assuming, of course, that Germany and her Allies defeat the Quadruple Entente powers.

SPAULDING'S SON TO CONTEST WILL

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 5.—Contest of the will of the late A. G. Spaulding, baseball pioneer and millionaire, and sporting goods merchant, was to be entered today immediately after the filing of the will for probate by Spaulding's son Keith, who charges that the will was procured through the undue influence of his wife, Elizabeth Churchill Spaulding, and Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society at Point Loma, Calif. Spaulding died at his residence in Point Loma, Sept. 9, last.

The contest alleges that for several years before his death Spaulding was not in his right mind; that his mental and physical strength was impaired by advancing age, by sickness and by business worries. About $2,000,000 was accumulated by Spaulding and his wife, who died in 1909, according to the contest. This, says Keith Spaulding, was the result of the joint industry of his father and mother and was accumulated for the benefit of his children.

U. S. Navy To Have More Dreadnaughts

Washington, Oct. 5.—Secretary Daniels made it plain today that the navy building program now in course of preparation, will include at least two super-dreadnaughts each to cost $18,000,000. "We have learned from the European war," the secretary said, "that shakes our faith in these heavily manned ships as the main fighting line of the navy."

One Killed When Water Wall Breaks

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 5.—One man was drowned, more than one hundred employees of a construction company were compelled to flee for safety, and machinery worth thousands of dollars was engulfed, when a retaining wall in the Louisville and Portland Canal, which is being reconstructed around the falls in the Ohio river, broke here today. A wave of water twelve feet high was released. Louis Wright, of Louisville, Ky., employed as hoisting engineer, was caught in the swirl and swept to death. A block below the opening scores of workmen, warned by the roar, scrambled to safety an instant before the flood swept by.

Canadian Begins Extradition Fight

GEORGIAN'S STONE NEGRO CHAUFFEURS

Cumming, Ga., Oct. 5.—When a party of automobilists, comprising the annual "seeing Georgia Tour" of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, drove into Forsyth county, into which no negro has been allowed to enter since four negroes criminally assaulted a young white woman near here two years ago, four of the tourist automobiles, driven by negro chauffeurs were made targets for stones and sticks, thrown by a crowd of men and boys. An attempt was made to take one of the chauffeurs from his car. No one was injured.

The tourists speeded up their automobiles and hastened into Cumming, the county seat of Forsyth, where an entertainment planned in their honor was carried out.

Racial feeling ran high at the time of the assaults and two of the negroes were lynched. The other two were tried and convicted here, chiefly upon the evidence of a sister of one of them. Later

Here Is First All Star Team

ALL STAR TEAM

Cathlamet-Snyder, St. Louis National League, Schalk, Chicago American League.
Pitchers—Alexander, Philadelphia National League, Marmora, Pittsburgh National League, and Johnson, Washington American League.
First Base—Scher, Chicago National League.
Second Base—Eddie Collins, Chicago American League.
Third Base—Maise, New York American League.
Shortstop—Harnog, Cincinnati National League.
Outfield—Tyus Cobb, Speaker and Cravath.

This is the all star team as selected by Grantland P. Rice, well known sporting writer. The team represents the cream of the two big leagues and it must be admitted that it could hardly be improved upon offensively or defensively.

Many fans will contend that Hine Grob is a better third baseman than Maise, but the records will not back up their assertion. Many will also wonder why Joe Jackson is not in the all star outfield. Simply because there is no room for the Dixie kid with Speaker, Cobb and Cravath picked for it.

Herzog is unquestionably the best shortstop in the game today. Eddie Collins has no equal at second and Maise at third is a remarkably well balanced infielder.

Rice's pitching staff is the last word in pitching. No three pitchers can be selected that will offset the ability shown this year by Alexander, Marmora and Johnson. And just two seasons ago Marmora was in the Ohio state league. His rise to stardom was certainly speedy.

TEAMS MADE BIG MONEY

It must be great to own pennant winning teams up in the big old show.

It is said that the Boston Red Sox cleaned up $150,000 this year and the Phils made over $100,000 with the Hingling money producing world's series yet to be heard from.

SPEAKER VS. CRAVATH

No phase of the forthcoming world's series till between the Phils and the Red Sox has aroused more speculation than the question of the probable relative effectiveness of the big guns of the rival attacks. This Speaker, of the Carrigan crew, and Cactus Cravath, of Moran's Maesters. Countless arguments are being waged over the two, and doubtless countless more will ensue whenever fans gather, until the series is history.

Phils Play Game On Serious Basis

No more serious-minded team was ever banded together than the present edition of Phils. Where they used to be carefree and disposed to strolling the 1915 club is entirely different. There are more students on the team than in any one year in past history. On the Pullman and in the hotel lobby every play is thrashed out and analyzed. If mistakes are made Pat Moran sees to it that the same mistake is not made twice.

Big Bet Is Made

A New York broker Monday bet $500 even that the Red Sox would beat the Phils. This is the first big bet recorded on the world's series.

One Surprise Was Uncorked

The surprise in football circles Saturday was the defeat of Case at the hands of Marietta. It looks like Oberlin will have only a fair team and O. S. U. is not expected to have the scoring machine it developed last year.

MAYER MAY PITCH BIG SERIES GAME

Phil Mayer.

Alexander can't pitch all the games in the world's series, so it isn't unlikely that Pat Moran will call on Phil Mayer to take the mound in one game. With the exception of Alexander, Mayer has made the best record of any pitcher with the Phils this season.

Big Crowd On Excursion

The N. & W. excursion to Cincinnati Sunday, the last of the season, carried 467 excursionists into the Queen City. One hundred and thirty-two tickets were sold at the local N. & W. depot.

Takes New Job

Arthur Harwood, former assistant city engineer, assumed his new duties as assistant county surveyor Monday morning.

WILL "SMOKY JOE" REPEAT 1912 FEAT?

Joe Wood.

Will "Smoky Joe" Wood, the Boston twirler who covered himself with glory in the 1912 world's series, be able to repeat in 1915? According to late reports from Boston, Wood is not in very good condition, and may not take a prominent part in the big series.

GEORGE WHITTED IS A LUCKY MAN

George Whitted may give Josh Devore a battle for the title of "The Luckiest Man in Baseball." Whitted was with the Cardinals up to the middle of the 1914 season. And then he was traded to the Braves. Was George glad? George was gosh darned mad, and that's what he was!

At the time the deal was put through the Cards seemed to have a nice chance for the pennant, and the consequent share in the world series spoils. The Braves just then were trying to push the bottom out of the National league. Well, George went to the Braves, because he was forced to go—and the Braves won the pennant and the world series. Whitted got something like $2500 as his share of the booty.

In the springtime of this year the Braves traded Whitted to the Phils—and gosh, how George did love it! He didn't want to quit a club that looked like a repeater in the world's series, and he was in play with a joke outfit such as the Phils. But in the end George went.

NOT BAD DOPE AT THAT

There is one very sane and sensible reason why so many well posted, dope devouring, boxscore scanners are picking the Red Sox to win from the Phils.

This said reason is none other than the fact that the Red Sox have won ten more games in their league than the Phils have in theirs. And no one will dispute the statement that the American is faster than the National. For this very reason the chirping wisewags, the dope eating lads are banking on the Red Sox to come through and grab the series.

All May Get Chance

Who will Manager Moran of the Phils use as his second pitcher? Many believe it will be George Dahlen, whom Moran permitted to come through his fingers. Dahlen, however, and Mayer have pitched fine ball all the way for the Phils and it is possible that they will all show in the big noise. It is a cinch they will if Alexander is bumped.

EVERS RATES DAHLEN AS HARD TO TAG AT SECOND

"In all my years of ball playing," said Johnny Evers recently, "the man I found hardest to touch as he came down to second base from first was Phil Dahlen, formerly manager of the Brooklyn Nationals. Dahlen always came straight down the base line directly at the base, but in the last few feet of the distance there was no telling what he would do. He had a great way of anticipating where the throw from the catcher was coming, and he played his sole to a neatly. Coming straight down, he suddenly would fold down to his hips, to one side or the other, spread his legs, and then use the greatest cleverness in pulling out of Agile Kangaroo.

Kangaroos, of which there are 36 species, can sometimes leap as much as 20 feet. The male kangaroo stands from six to seven feet high.

TEAM WHALES SOUTHPAWS

One thing must be remembered in the coming big series between Philadelphia and Boston and that is the Phils can't count on the southpaws.

Possibly Leonard and Foster will not be as effective against the Moran men as he has been against the American league teams. The Phils have certainly made life miserable for the portside flingers the past season.

MAY PITCH GAME IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

Demaree.

Al Demaree has started to pitch twenty-five contests for the Philadelphia Nationals during the past season and has lasted through thirteen—a mark of 520. In the games that he has pitched the Phils have made fifty-eight runs and he has permitted his opponents twenty-four. It is probable that Demaree will pitch a game in the world's series.

Rivals Are Defeated

The White Station Farmers defeated the Portsmouth Rivals at St. Francis Park Sunday afternoon in a very loosely played contest. The final score was 10 to 5. Batteries: Farmers, Deland, Lowery and Hansen; Rivals, Simmons and Cornute.

Man's Achievement.
Reflect upon the disproportion between the achievements of man and the use he puts them to. He invents wireless telegraphy, and the ships call to one another day and night to tell the name of the latest winner. He is inventing the flying machine, and he will use it to advertise pills and drop bombs.

SUNDAY WAS GREAT DAY IN SCIOTOVILLE CHURCH

Evangelist R. A. Bennett, of Marion, Ind., preaching three masterful sermons Sunday, made the day the greatest in the history of the local congregation, according to the opinion of many. The people so expressed themselves very largely. It was really a great day. Mr. Bennett's fitness of spirit and gentleness of soul took the people by surprise. The people listened with the keenest interest to all the addresses and expressed the highest appreciation of his great help. The church will never "get over" the occasion, and what is encouraging about the Sciotoville people is that they will in this, as in other things, have no desire to forget the day.

Bennett talks to the point. He is fired by divine zeal and inspiration, and it is hard for anyone to keep from "soaking in" all he says. Not many churches like the Sciotoville congregation that have the distinction of having such a man in their pulpit very often.

He gives a lecture to a mixed audience Tuesday night, October 6. Of course the church auditorium will be filled. His subject will be "Danger Signaled and Sore Spots. There will be special music.

The sermons Sunday dealt with problems and matters of vital interest to the church and community.

APPRECIATED KINDNESS.

Sheriff Smith received two fine whisk brooms Monday from the son of Elizabeth Ingram, of Evansville, Ind., who was found in a demented condition about three weeks ago near Clifford. The son is a superintendent of a big broom factory in Evansville, and was an appreciative of the kindness shown his mother and his wife, who came after her, that he wanted to make some expression of his gratitude.

BRINGING PUMPKINS

Five large pumpkins were brought down from Sciotoville Monday by E. O. McCowen, county school superintendent, to be placed on exhibition in the pumpkin exhibit in the Second street school yard. Twenty-two more are to come from Sciotoville, while the number from other sections of the county is above the expectations of the committee.

Superintendent McCowen and Paul Cromer, district superintendent, were busy at the Second street school building Monday getting the rural schools exhibit ready. District Superintendent W. L. Richey will assist Mr. McCowen Tuesday.

APPLIED TO BUILDING FUND

The collection at the German Evangelical Sunday school and church services Sunday amounted to $425, which goes into the building fund. The morning collection amounted to $270 and the evening collection to $155.

Chief Allen Recovers A Missing Watch

The gold watch stolen from it by 7 o'clock in the evening, on the hiding place in a clothes press at Mrs. Jacob Pressler's home, 919 Tenth street, ten days ago, was recovered by Chief Allen Monday evening.

The chief had been diligently running down clues for a week and learned the identity of a young man who had been seen with the watch in his possession. He hunted him up and delivered himself of such a straight-from-the-shoulder line of talk that the fellow wilted, and though declaring he did not have the watch, promised to deliver it up.

Warning To Billy

A lady, who probably has an interest in one of the church books at the Kern Carnival, called the Times Monday evening and asked that the following message be delivered at once, with all haste: "You please tell Billy Butt-In that if he don't hand out some good weather this week, that he can get off the job and we will have Herb Coriell." This message has been delivered, and Billy Butt-In promises to do his best. His prediction for tomorrow is fair and cool.

Auto Was Endangered

"Rags" Rannels, the well known Red Horse tobacco salesman, came very near being numbered among the "autoless salesmen" Sunday morning. While cleaning his machine at the front garage an electric spark flew into a pan of gasoline that was setting on the car and soon, a threatening fire was raging. Mr. Rannels, of the garage, and other employees, extinguished the blaze by the liberal use of chemicals in the fire extinguishers and prevented any damage to the machine.—Ironclad.

IDEAL WEATHER PROMISED FOR KORN KARNIVAL

Ideal October weather for the Portsmouth Korn Carnival is the promise of Government Weather Forecaster William C. Devereaux, in charge of the Cincinnati district. Mr. Devereaux was in Portsmouth Tuesday on an inspection trip and, after receiving reports from his office made the above statement in regard to weather prospects for the remainder of the week.

"This morning an area of fair and cool weather covers the entire West," said Mr. Devereaux. "The only storm area is central over the St. Lawrence valley and is moving Eastward.

"In Portsmouth this afternoon the sun will shine occasionally, but will be mostly cloudy, gradually clearing during the night and cooler. Tomorrow morning will be crisp and cool, but under the influence of sunshine during the day the temperature will rise slowly.

"All indications for Wednesday and Thursday and probably Friday and Saturday are for fair weather, with moderate temperature, almost ideal October weather."

GARFORD TAKES PUNCH AT WILLIS; HAS PRAISE FOR "TEDDY" AND COX

The Enquirer Sunday had the following interesting interview:

New York, Oct. 2.—Arthur L. Garford, a factor in the politics of Ohio, and who makes his home in Elyria, returned to New York this week from an automobile trip through the Berkshire Hills, accompanied by Mrs. Garford. They left here yesterday to motor back to the Buckeye State by easy stages.

"What do you think of the political situation in Ohio?" Mr. Garford was asked.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Garford, "there doesn't seem to be any since the Republican administrative body of the state seems to have assumed the character and functions of an employment bureau so far as I can judge from press accounts. The activities of the last legislature as well as that of the chief executive and his henchmen have been directed along lines of repeal and decentralization rather than of maintenance and betterment of the many progressive measures passed by the Cox administration in the interests of public welfare. In other words the Willis administration has been devoting its time and attention to tearing down instead of building up; of destruction instead of construction, and all for the apparent purpose of making changes, not for betterment of service through the selection of those better qualified to do the work, but to give hungry partisans who were prominent in the campaign activities for Willis and the Republican cause a meat ticket and job. Never in the history of Ohio politics, within my time, has there been such a scrambling of political bosses and ward-healers to get their feet in the trough and gorge themselves with partisan food at the public expense. There is no longer time or talent to devote to public necessities, the private wants as manifested through the State Employment Bureau, with the governor in command, must needs have preference."

"What do you think of the decentralization measure as passed by the legislature?" was asked Mr. Garford.

"Well," said Mr. Garford after a pause, "I think it is a colossal failure. It decentralizes, yes, thoroughly and completely, and makes a farce of the liquor license laws of the state. To decentralize authority to enforce law means, in substance, the nullification of law itself. To enforce and make effective a liquor license law there must be centralized power—a court of last resort."

"How about the Greenlund law passed by the Cox administration?" was asked.

"That was as good and effective a law as was possible under the license system," said Mr. Garford. "It located final authority of law enforcement in the Governor himself, and made him directly responsible to the people for its success or failure. The Willis plan provides a means for side-stepping authority and of shifting responsibility. I know the argument advanced that the Cox plan offers opportunity for building up a political machine through the brewery and saloon influence in the state if the chief executive willed it. My answer to that is that no such machine was built up by Cox, nor would there be by any high-class governor, such as the people should place in power. Cox was defeated because of the effectiveness of the law he had secured in the interest of public welfare, and at the expense and curtailment, at least, of the liquor power."

"What do you think the people of Ohio now prefer?"

"My judgment is that the people of Ohio generally prefer the Greenlund law to the present administrative scheme of the present administration. So long as we have license let us have centralized authority for law enforcement."

"What are the Progressives doing, and what will be their attitude in 1916 as to state and national tickets?" was asked of Mr. Garford.

"So far as I know the Progressives are just sitting tight," he answered. "There is nothing to be gained by doing anything else just now."

"Progressives know that they hold the balance of power in state politics. That is to say, that if they do not put a ticket of their own in the field next year they have enough votes to elect either a Democratic or Republican candidate to insure his election. And you may rest assured that these votes will be cast for the candidate who most nearly conforms to the Progressive idea and platform. We have always maintained the principle of seeking the enactment of Progressive measures in the interest of social service and public welfare rather than mere offices, and this rule will hold good in our support of a gubernatorial and other candidates next year."

"Did you consider the administration of Governor Cox progressive?"

"Yes. I consider Cox to be far more progressive than Governor Willis so far."

"What about Ohio's favorite sons in the next Republican National Convention?" Mr. Garford.

"Well, as usual, Ohio will probably be represented. I do not care to express any view on the comparative qualifications of any individual who may have aspirations in that direction from our state. Whoever may land the nomination of the national Republican ticket the task of defeating President Wilson will not be an easy one. And there may be another phase of the situation that must be reckoned with. Should the Republicans nominate a man of pronounced stand-pat principles the chances are that the Progressive element in that party would support the presidential candidate on the Progressive ticket, who will be sure to enter the field in that event."

"Is there any sentiment throughout the country for the Progressive ticket?" was asked Mr. Garford.

"I know there is much sentiment new in the West, and constantly gaining headway for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt on the Republican ticket. If such a thing should be brought about, and a progressive platform adopted, the ticket would sweep the country. No other living American so truly and strongly represents the things the rank and file of Americans in their hearts desire as does Mr. Roosevelt."

"What will be the issues of the next national campaign?" Garford was asked.

"The paramount issue in the national campaign next year will be national preparedness and defense, and next to that, the tariff and economic question," was the answer. "No man in America today stands more firmly for the former nor more strongly for the latter than Roosevelt, and he is absolutely right and sane on both. His stand on these all-important issues is that of Progressives everywhere. No evasive or compromising notions in our program. We are not of those who are for peace at any price, neither are we for war at any price. So long as human nature is as it is and ambition and greed dominate nations as well as individuals we must police, fortify and protect that which as Americans we hold most sacred, and for which no race would more willingly sacrifice both life and treasure. Our homes and families and the wonderful accomplishments of our people for the past century and carrying with them the priceless liberties of a kindred should indeed be our concern. We must not shirk the duty of placing them beyond hazard from all and any invading forces. This cannot be done by following a coward's or weakling's leadership. Courage and patriotic Americanism are the essentials necessary in meeting the situation and who more nearly personifies these qualities than Theodore Roosevelt?"

"Oh, yes," concluded Mr. Garford, "I know that he has enemies of long standing and the suggestion I have made will not please a bunch of self-confessed partisan patriots, but this is no time for small and petty wranglings. First of all we should be true Americans—Republicans, Democrats, Progressives, Socialists, all."

Health Board To Investigate At Incompleted I. O. O. F. Home

One of the shortest sessions of the health board was held Monday afternoon with members Dan Laibold, Dr. A. L. Test and J. J. Orlett present. Mayor Frick presided over the meeting.

Mayor Frick asked Health Officer Dr. Smith for his report on the analysis of the Kinney's Lane spring water which the city had asked to be analyzed. Dr. Smith reported that the state board of health had not sent him samples of the water to the state board as soon as he received the necessary containers.

Mayor Frick reported that the weekly complaint had been made about the old Odd Fellows building on Seventh street. A family living near the abandoned building registered a kick about the unsanitary condition of the building every few days. Dr. Smith again reported that he could find no unsanitary conditions existing at that place although it was unsightly. Mayor Frick advised the erection of a high board fence in the front to hide the unsightliness of the place but the plan did not meet with the approval of the board. It was finally decided to leave the matter to the sanitary committee. Messrs. Laibold, Test and Smith.

A motion was made to have Clerk John Berndt notify Mrs. Clara Foster of Offene street and Gustave Heinrich of Harvard place that they will have to connect their vaults with the sanitary sewer. The two have been notified by resolution that they should top the sewer but have failed to comply with the order. They will be given ten days to connect to the sewer.

The following reports were read and approved: Clerk John Berndt's mortality report for September: typhoid fever, 1; cancer, 2; phthisis pulmonalis, 4; other constitutional diseases, 2; heart disease, 2; peritonitis, 1; pneumonia, 1; other local diseases, 3; violence, 2; total for month, 24. Based on 30,000 population, rate for month .76 per 1000; rate for year 9.3 per 1000.

Dr. William D. Schafer, city physician, gave the following as his report for the past month: Number of home visits, 191; number of office calls, 20; number of obstetrical cases, 4; number of operations, 1.

Plumbing Inspector Arthur Dunton's September report: total number of inspections, 179; number of approval certificates granted, 7; number of specifications examined and approved, 20; number of permits issued, 20; amount received from permits for plumbing, $15.50; for vault tapping, $2.

Health Officer Dr. W. W. Smith reported 25 cases of diphtheria and four of scarlet fever quarantined during September. All were of a mild character. The diphtheria and other contagious diseases are usually above the average number during the time of the starting of school. Dr. Walter Daehler also submitted his monthly report.

Booze threw 16 workmen out of a job the other day in Portsmouth. How many do you know off?

It made her appearance in the form of a rash and kept getting worse and spread all over her face and ears were almost a solid mass, very irritating and causing great itching and distress. It made her restless at night and her face was quite disfigured. "I tried different remedies suggested but nothing we did brought any relief. TIME LIMIT OF RUSSIA'S ULTIMATUM TO BULGARIA EXPIRES AT 9:30 THIS MORNING

DUMBA MAKES EXIT AT NOON TODAY

New York, Oct. 5.—Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Washington for more than two years, who was recalled at the request of the United States government, was today to start for Austria today on the Holland-American liner New Amsterdam, leaving here for Rotterdam at noon.

Mrs. Dumba goes with him. Friends of Dumba and official representatives of Austria-Hungary and Germany were expected to gather at the pier to bid him farewell. The ambassador and his wife had spent the previous evening in seeing their final calls upon Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and in bidding good-bye to other official and personal acquaintances.

The recall of Dr. Dumba was due to the seizure by agents of the British government of messages from the ambassador to his government, which had been carried across the ocean by James F. J. Archibald, an American. This took place early last month. Copies of the dispatches were communicated by the British government to the United States, and on September 9 the secretary of state announced that he had instructed the American ambassador at Vienna to deliver a note to Austria, notifying him that Dr. Dumba was no longer acceptable as an ambassador. In the note to Austria Secretary Lansing stated that Dr. Dumba admitted that he proposed to his government plans to instigate strikes in American manufacturing plants engaged in the production of munitions of war, and that he employed Archibald to bear official dispatches to the Austrian government. This later action was stigmatized by Mr. Lansing as a "flagrant violation of diplomatic propriety."

At the request of the Austrian government the United States arranged with the British government for safe conduct for Dr. Dumba on his homeward journey across the ocean.

CARDINAL PLANS CATHOLIC CENTRE AT WASHINGTON, D.C.

Cardinal Gibbons.

Realizing the possibility of an invasion of the great Italian capital, the home of his church, and deploring the terrible and demoralizing effect of the war on the once magnificent educational centres of Europe, James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, has conceived a plan by which he hopes to reach the zenith of his remarkable achievements during his long career of usefulness to the Catholic church in making, from an educational viewpoint, Washington, D. C., the Rome of America.

Petrograd, Oct. 4.—(Via London, Oct. 5).—Russia's ultimatum to Bulgaria was out delivered to Premier Radolovoff until four o'clock yesterday afternoon. This statement was made officially here today.

Previous advices from Petrograd were that the Russian ultimatum had been delivered on Sunday and that the twenty-four hour limit within which a reply was demanded expired yesterday. As this period did not begin in the time of the actual delivery of the ultimatum the Bulgarian government has until four o'clock this afternoon (about 9:30 a. m. New York time) in which to decide whether to adopt a policy of strict neutrality or to side openly with Germany, Austria and Turkey.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Russia's ultimatum to Bulgaria is welcomed in Paris as a means of clearing the Balkan situation. Little doubt is felt here that France will take similar action and that if the Russian minister departs from Sofia, he will be accompanied by the representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy.

Jean Herbelte and other specialists in foreign politics are agreed that the Allies must strike hard and swiftly if they are to accomplish their purpose in the Balkans, and that half the measures would be worse than useless. They state that the Entente Powers should send in 500,000 or 600,000 men. It is stated the Italians have 500,000 idle men under arms. Owing to the position of Italy in reference to certain Balkan peoples, the Italians might be precluded from landing troops at Saloniki but the suggestion is made that they might assist the British and French at the Dardanelles.

It is conceded that if Bulgaria should enter the war the situation would be a dangerous one for the Allies. Unless this blow were parried quickly, military strategists believe, the Serbians might be crushed between the Germans and Austrians on the north and Bulgarians on the south in which case a Teutonic enemy might reach Constantinople in a comparatively short time.

PORTSMOUTH WOMAN TO SPEAK IN COLUMBUS

Columbus, Oct. 5.—Extension of public libraries by the establishment of "book clubs" among farmers or city residents and the lending of books to these clubs, was one of the principal subjects for discussion before the Ohio Library Association which opened its twenty-fifth convention here today. The meeting will continue through Friday morning. Many speakers expected to urge that libraries make special efforts to get greater circulation for their books instead of allowing thousands of volumes to remain idle so much on dusty shelves.

Among the speakers on the program of the first session were State Librarian C. B. Galbreath, Herbert S. Hirschberg, of the Toledo Public Library, and William W. Bishop, of the University of Michigan Library.

The program for departmental meetings tomorrow include: Daniel J. Ryan, Columbus; John G. White, Cleveland; Dr. W. J. Coulkin, Dayton; Washington T. Porter, Cincinnati; C. S. Brown, Toledo; Mrs. A. S. Hobart, Cleveland; Miss Julia Wright, Merrill, Cincinnati; Miss Elizabeth Sweetman, Dayton; Miss Anna C. Newton, Portsmouth; Miss Anna L. Holding, Van Wert; Miss Emma Graham, Sidney.

Miss Sarah J. Cutler, of Marietta, will discuss "The Coonskin Library" tomorrow evening and Miss Alice S. Tyler, of the Western Library Reserve School, Cleveland, will make an address.

At the final session Friday Miss Edith Phall, of the National Cash Register Company, Dayton, will talk on "A Climate of Men," and Miss Elizabeth Doren, of Dayton, will discuss "Holiday Ex-

PROTESTS LANDING OF TROOPS

London, Oct. 5.—Discussing the protest of Greece against the Allied troops landing at Saloniki, the Athens correspondent of the Star says: "Greece was obliged to enter a formal protest because of the constitution of landing of foreign troops on Greek soil must be sanctioned by special legislation."

GEORGIANS STONE NEGRO CHAUFFEURS

Channing, Ga., Oct. 5.—When a party of automobilists, comprising the annual "seeing Georgia Tour" of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, yesterday drove into Forsyth county, into which no negro has been allowed to enter since four negroes criminally assaulted a young white woman near here two years ago, four of the tourist automobiles, driven by negro chauffeurs, were made targets for stones and sticks, thrown by a crowd of men and boys. An attempt was made to take one of the chauffeurs from his car. No one was injured.

The tourists speeded up their automobiles and hastened into Cumming, the county seat of Forsyth, where an entertainment planned in their honor was carried out.

Racial feeling ran high at the time of the assaults and two of the negroes were lynched. The other two were tried and convicted here, chiefly upon the evidence of a sister of one of them. Under these two were hanged. All negroes were ordered to leave Forsyth county at this time. All obeyed the order.

CASHIER CONFESSES TO THEFT

Port Worth, Texas, Oct. 5.—Found locked in a bank vault and telling a story of an attack by two robbers, which netted them $8,342, J. T. Adams, cashier of the State Bank Keller, confessed today to County Attorney Spoonz and Chief of Detectives Montgomery, that he, himself had appropriated the cash missing from the vault. About $4,704 of the money was recovered.

Adams is held in jail under bond of $2,000 on a charge of embezzlement.

"Stop Massacres;" U. S. Tells Turkey

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Turkish government will be formally notified that unless the massacre of Armenians ceases, friendly relations between the American people and the people of Turkey will be threatened. Instructions to that effect had gone today to Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople for presentation to the foreign office. Officials here made it plain, however, that the message did not threaten a rupture in the diplomatic relations between the two countries. The ambassador's instructions are merely to inform Turkey that the American people already are so stirred by the reported massacres that a continuance of the atrocities might result in a break in the friendly relations between the two peoples.

DEFENDS U. S. COAST FROM 'HOSTILE' FLEET

Washington, Oct. 5.—Admiral Fletcher's Atlantic fleet of battle-ships was engaged today in defending the coast from Maine to Florida against a hostile force under Vice Admiral Mayo. This was the beginning of a ten days' war game which had been planned in a more extensive scale than before attempted by the United States navy. Practically every available vessel on the Atlantic was participating.

The hostile fleet designated as "Red" put to sea from Newport, R. I., and the other "Blue" fleet from Hampton Roads yesterday. Admiral Fletcher's objective was to prevent the "Red" fleet from effecting an entrance to any port.

In the defending fleet were eight dreadnaughts and four pre-dreadnaughts. Vice Admiral Mayo's fleet was composed of swift cruisers and vessels of similar type.

Submarines and mines were to play an important part in the maneuvers, theoretical mine fields having been established at strategic points along the Atlantic coast.

The progress of the operations will be kept secret because of the desire of the war college to work out a scheme of national defense.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT OPENS

Cincinnati, Oct. 5.—The October term of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals opened here today with Judges Warrenton, Knapp and Dennison presiding.

The United States District Court also opened the October term today and most important cases to be set for trial are those against Augustus O. Johnson, former collection clerk of the Fifth-Third National Bank, and Elmer E. Galbreath and C. H. Davis, former officials of the old Second National Bank.

CHICAGO TO BE DRY ON SUNDAYS

Chicago, Oct. 5.—For the first time in the forty-four years Chicago will be dry next Sunday. The order that 7,152 saloons, cafes and gardens where liquor is sold shall obey the Illinois Sunday closing law will go into effect at 12 o'clock Saturday night it was announced today. No liquor will be permitted to be sold, nor given away, between the hour and 12 o'clock Sunday night. As the city ordinance permits the sale of liquor until one o'clock in the morning saloon interests pointed out today that they might open their places for business for one hour, between 12 and 1 o'clock on Sunday night.

The order was a shock to the liquor interests. The counsel for the Brewers Association announced that a meeting of all saloon interests would be called to discuss the order, which they said would force many small saloons out of business.

Wholesale arrests of saloon-keepers who violate the closing law was promised by Chief of Police Healy. Conviction carries with it a fine not to exceed $200. The mayor, it was pointed out, has power to revoke licenses for violation of the law.

VOTE WET IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—Ninety-three precincts out of 193 in this county (Hennepin) gives the wets 18,355 and the dries 13,618 in Monday's voting. The Tribune estimates the wets will carry the county by about 5,000.

MILITARY PACT LINKS TEUTONS AND BULGARS

Milan, Oct. 4.—(Via Parks, Oct. 5).—A military convention was signed between Bulgaria, Germany and Austria, some time ago, according to a Sofia dispatch to the Corriere della Sera.

By the terms of this treaty, the dispatch asserts, the Bulgarian army is bound to attack Serbia with six divisions in the Nish-Piriot section and to send Macedonian troops to Vardar to destroy railroad communication with Saloniki thus delaying the Allies in their efforts to aid Serbia.

The opposition Bulgarian leaders Mm. Ghenadiev, Malinoff and Guchoff, after having gone so far as to threaten King Ferdinand because of his stand in favor of Germany and Austria, are reported to have changed front completely and now proclaim that the nation is united. Bands of students parade the streets of Sofia singing alternately the Bulgarian, German and Austrian National anthems.

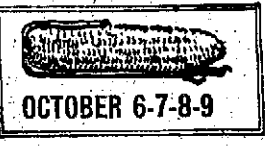

RUSSIA TO PLAN HUGE WAR CREDIT

London, Oct. 5.—An arrangement for a commercial credit in London for Russia probably will result, the Times says, from the visit to England of Finance Minister Bark. This arrangement, it is understood, will take the form of discounting Russian government bills up to 20,000,000 pounds ($100,000,000).

PHILLIES TO CLOSE THEIR SEASON TODAY

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—The National League champions close their wide diversity of opinion as to regular schedule today by meeting whether the Phillies or the Boston in Brooklyn in two contests, and American League title-holders will be the next two days will be employed in the coveted honor, but there in getting the grounds and players in readiness for the opening of the World's Series on Friday. It will be the first time in the history of game nursing an injured shoulder, the park that so many reservations were needed.

There has been so much speculation regarding the respectively set at rest last night by the un-announcement that he probably will be in shape for the first game.

Officials of the club and Philadelphia fans alike feel highly elated over the fact that President Wilson will be present at the second game of the series on Saturday.

STRIKE TIES PLANT OF GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

Seheneastad, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Morning. Quiet prevailed throughout the city and company officials and city police reiterated that they did not believe special officers would be necessary to maintain order. J. J. Keppeler, vice president of the International Machinists of America, is actively directing the strike.

The General Electric Company tied up today as a result of the strike for an eight hour work day which began yesterday. Two hundred pattern makers, members of the only craft working independent of another, who remained at work yesterday, walked out this morning. Only a few molders and coremakers unions, which remained at work yesterday with the pattern makers reported for work this morning.

THE LATEST IN SPORTS

Here Is First All Star Team

ALL STAR TEAM
 Catchers—Bryant, St. Louis National League; Schalk, Chicago American League.
 Pitchers—Alexander, Philadelphia National League; Marmora, Pittsburgh National League; Johnson, Washington American League.
 First Base—Baier, Chicago National League.
 Second Base—Eddie Collins, Chicago American League.
 Third Base—Mabel, New York American League.
 Shortstop—Harvey, Cincinnati National League.
 Outfield—Tyus Cobb, Speaker and Cravath.

This is the all star team as selected by Grantland P. Rice, well known sporting writer. The team represents the cream of the two big leagues and it must be admitted that it could hardly be improved upon, offensively or defensively.

Many fans will contend that Home Run is a better third baseman than Mabel, but the records will not back up their assertion. Many will also wonder why Joe Jackson is not in the all star outfield. Simply because there is no room for the Dixie kid with Speaker, Cobb and Cravath picked for it. Herzig is unquestionably the best shortstop in the game today. Eddie Collins has no equal at second and Mabel at third is a remarkably well balanced infielder.

Rice's pitching staff is the last word in pitching. No three pitcher can be selected that will offset the ability shown this year by Alexander, Marmora and Johnson. And just two seasons ago Marmora was in the Ohio State league. His rise to stardom was certainly speedy.

TEAMS MADE BIG MONEY

It must be great to own pennant winning teams up in the big old show.

It is said that the Boston Red Sox cleaned up $500,000 this year and the Phils made over $100,000 with the angle money producing world's series yet to be heard from.

Big Bet Is Made

A New York broker Monday bet $500 even that the Red Sox would beat the Phils. This is the first big bet recorded on the world's series.

One Surprise Was Uncorked

The surprise in football circles Saturday was the defeat of Case at the hands of Marquette. It looks like Oberlin will have only a fair team and O. S. is not expected to have the scoring machine it developed last year.

MAYER MAY PITCH BIG SERIES GAME

Phil Mayer.

Alexander can't pitch all the games in the world's series, so it isn't unlikely that Pat Moran will call on Phil Mayer to take the mound in one game. With the exception of Alexander, Mayer has made the best record of any pitcher with the Phils this season.

Big Crowd On Excursion

The N. & W. excursion to Cincinnati Sunday, the last of the season, carried 467 excursionists into the Queen City. One hundred and thirty-two tickets were sold at the local N. & W. depot.

Takes New Job

Arthur Harwood, former assistant city engineer, assumed his new duties as assistant county surveyor Monday morning.

WILL "SMOKY JOE" REPEAT 1912 FEAT?

Joe Wood.

Will "Smoky Joe" Wood, the Boston twirler who covered himself with glory in the 1912 world's series, be able to repeat in 1915? According to late reports from Boston, Wood is not in very good condition, and may not take a prominent part in the big series.

GEORGE WHITTED IS A LUCKY MAN

George Whitted may give Josh Devore a battle for the title of "The Luckiest Man in Baseball." Whitted was with the Cardinals up to the middle of the 1914 season. And then he was traded to the Braves. Way George glad? George was gosh darned mad, and that's what he was!

At the time the deal was put through the Cards seemed to have a nice chance for the pennant—and the consequent share in the world series spoils. The Braves just then were trying to push the bottom out of the National league. Well, George went to the Braves, because he was forced to go—and the Braves won the pennant and the world series. Whitted got something like $2,500 as his share of the bonny.

In the springtime of this year the Braves traded Whitted to the Phils—and, gosh, how George did love it! He didn't want to quit a club that looked like a repeater in the world's series business to play with a lousy outfit such as the Phils. But in the end George went.

NOT BAD DOPE AT THAT

There is one very sane and sensible reason why so many well posted, dope devouring, boxscore scanners are picking the Red Sox to win from the Phils.

This said reason is none other than the Red Sox have won ten more games in their league than the Phils have in theirs. And no one will dispute the statement that the American is faster than the National. For this very reason the chipping wisecracks, the dope eating lads are banking on the Red Sox to come through and grab the series.

All May Get Chance

Who will Manager Moran of the Phils use as his second pitcher? Many believe it will be George Chalmers, whom McGraw permitted to go through his fingers. Chalmers, Demaree and Mayer have pitched fine ball all the way for the Phils and it is possible that they will all show in the big noise. It is a clutch they will if Alexander is bumped.

EVERS RATES DAHLEN AS HARD TO TAG AT SECOND

"In all my years of ball playing," said Johnny Evers recently, "the man I found hardest to touch as he came to second base from first was Bill Dahlen, formerly manager of the Brooklyn Nationals. Dahlen always came straight down the base line directly at the base, but in the last ten feet of the distance there was no telling what he would do. He had a great way of anticipating where the throw from the catcher was coming, and he played his side to a steady coming down to his hips, to one side or the other, spread his legs, and then use the greatest cleverness in pulling out of

TEAM WHALES SOUTHPAWS

One thing must be remembered in the coming big series between Philadelphia and Boston and that is the Phils can maul the southpaws.

Possibly Leonard and Foster will not be as effective against the Moran men as he has been against the American league teams. The Phils have certainly made life miserable for the portside fingers the past season.

MAY PITCH GAME IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

Demaree.

Al Demaree has started to pitch twenty-five contests for the Philadelphia Nationals during the past season and has lasted through thirteen—a mark of 520. In the games that he has pitched the Phils have made fifty-eight runs and he has permitted his opponents twenty-four. It is probable that Demaree will pitch a game in the world's series.

Rivals Are Defeated

The Waits Station Farmers defeated the Portsmouth Rivals at St. Straus Park Sunday afternoon in a very loosely played contest. The final score was 10 to 8. Batteries: Farmers, Bolander, Lowery and Hansen; Rivals, Simmons and Cornute.

Man's Achievement

Reflect upon the disproportion between the achievements of man and the use he puts them to. He invents wireless telegraphy, and the ships call to one another day and night to tell the name of the latest winner. He is inventing the flying machine, and he will use it to advertise pills and drop bombs.

Did It, Even Then?

No doubt the weather forecast of Noah's day sputtered something about "a deficiency in precipitation" as he went down for the third time.

SUNDAY WAS GREAT DAY IN SCIOTOVILLE CHURCH

Evangelist R. A. Bennett, of Marion, Ind., preaching three masterful sermons Sunday, made the day the greatest in the history of the local congregation, according to the opinion of many. The people so expressed themselves very largely.

It was really a great day. Mr. Bennett's fluency of spirit and gentility of soul took the people by contagion. The people listened with the keenest interest to all the addresses and expressed the highest appreciation of his great help. The church will never "get over" the occasion, and what is encouraging about the Sciotoville people is, that they will in this, as in other things, have no desire to forget the day.

Bennett talks to the point. He is fired by divine zeal and inspiration, and it is hard for anyone to keep from "soaking in" all he says. Not many churches like the Sciotoville congregation that have the distinction of having such a man in their pulpit very often.

He gives a lecture to a mixed audience Tuesday night, October 5. Of course the church auditorium will be filled. His subject will be "Danger Signaled and Sore Spots." There will be special music.

The sermons Sunday dealt with problems and matters of vital interest to the church and community.

APPRECIATED KINDNESS.

Sheriff Smith received two fine whisky brogues Monday from the son of Elizabeth Ingram, of Evansville, Ind., who was found in a demented condition about three weeks ago near Clifford. The son is a superintendent of a big broom factory in Evansville, and was so appreciative of the kindness shown his mother and his wife, who came after her, that he wanted to make some expression of his gratitude.

BRINGING PUMPKINS

Five large pumpkins were brought down from Sciotoville Monday by E. O. McCowen, county school superintendent, to be placed on exhibition in the pumpkin exhibit in the Second street school yard. Twenty-two more are to come from Sciotoville, while the number from other sections of the county is above the expectations of the committee.

Superintendent McCowen and Paul Cromer, district superintendent, were busy at the Second street school building Monday getting the rural schools exhibit ready. District Superintendent W. L. Richey will assist Mr. McCowen Tuesday.

Chief Allen Recovers A Missing Watch

The gold watch stolen from its hiding place in a clothes press at Mrs. Jacob Pressler's home, 919 Tenth street, ten days ago, was recovered by Chief Allen Monday evening.

The chief had been diligently running down clues for a week and learned the identity of a young man who had been seen with the watch in his possession. He hunted him up and delivered himself of such a straight-from-the-shoulder line of talk that the fellow wilted, and though declaring he did not have the watch, promised to deliver it up by 7 o'clock in the evening, on the promise of immunity. As Mrs. Pressler was interested only in recovering her property and did not care to prosecute anyone, the chief assured him he would not be arrested. True to his promise, the young man brought the watch to headquarters.

Warning To Billy

A lady, who probably has an interest in one of the church booths at the Korn Karnival, called the Times Monday evening and asked that the following message be delivered at once, with all haste: "You please tell Billy Butt-In that if he don't hand out some good weather this week, that he can get out of the job and we will have Herb Coriell." This message has been delivered, and Billy Butt-In promises to do his best. His prediction for tomorrow is fair and cool.

THE BURSTED RESERVOIR.

There was both good and bad fortune, if it may be so expressed, in the bursting of the water works reservoir. For many a long dreary, well nigh hopeless year, it was the dream of Portsmouth to possess a decent water service and, this seemed at last realized, when the reservoir system was put in operation. Scarcely has the public become accustomed to a better service when it is most seriously imperiled by the bursting or rather the sliding out of a huge section of the reservoir on Sunday afternoon. That was the bad fortune. The good luck was in the fact that with such an immense volume of water sent suddenly surging down a steep hill and rushing over a much traveled thoroughfare, more especially on Sunday, there should be no loss of life whatsoever, and only small destruction of property.

The catastrophe is but another exhibit of the painful laxity and indifference, to characterize by no harsher term, with which public affairs have been conducted. Here was an essential in the comfort and health of all the people of the city, a most vital point in a system, not constructed with that care and precaution both its importance and the conditions surrounding it made easily apparent and demanded. It was regarded unsafe both in inception and completion and though some measures were taken to overcome they have proven altogether futile. For it was work that had to be done, right in the beginning and no later precautions, it now develops could have rendered it altogether secure.

A most serious problem confronts the city in repairing the damage and here again it is to be regarded as fortunate, fortunate in the fact that it has at the head of its administration such a thorough-going and painstaking mayor as the present incumbent. Whatever is done under his direction will be as well done as was poorly done before him.

A MEASURE OF SURPRISE.

The greatest surprise the automobile tourists will find in a trip to the Mississippi valley from the east is the Illinois highways. Illinois is the third state in the Union in both wealth and population, with on the whole the most productive lands and selling on an average for twice as much as those elsewhere.

Naturally one expects to find in this great and prosperous state good roads. Instead he finds bad ones and the worst from Maine to Missouri. Even that is not the worst he finds, for he soon discovers in many sections a sentiment hostile to good roads and dominant. The leading agricultural paper of the state is carrying on a campaign against better roads, its position being that in building good roads the farmer heaps a breakable burden upon himself and his future for the joy of generations to come. Many county papers are following in its wake, which is strange, indeed, considering that in those counties where opposition in strongest lands sell anywhere from $100 to $400 an acre.

It must not be supposed, however, that there is no progressive spirit in Illinois. To the contrary, an aggressive minority is clamoring for better highways and here and there getting them.

As a conclusion of an auto trip across Illinois, from which the writer has just returned, he is more than ever convinced both of the desirability and value of good roads and of the correctness of a position long maintained by The Times, brick for trunk roads and macadam for those of lesser importance. On the way here and there, even in the country stretches of brick were passed over and they were uniformly good, showing no signs of wear. There were miles and miles of fine macadam and even some excellent gravel roads, more particularly in eastern Indiana and western Ohio, but it was evident enough that the price of these is eternal vigilance and constant repaving and grading. After each rain they showed washes and cuppings, while the brick roads were made all the more of a joy.

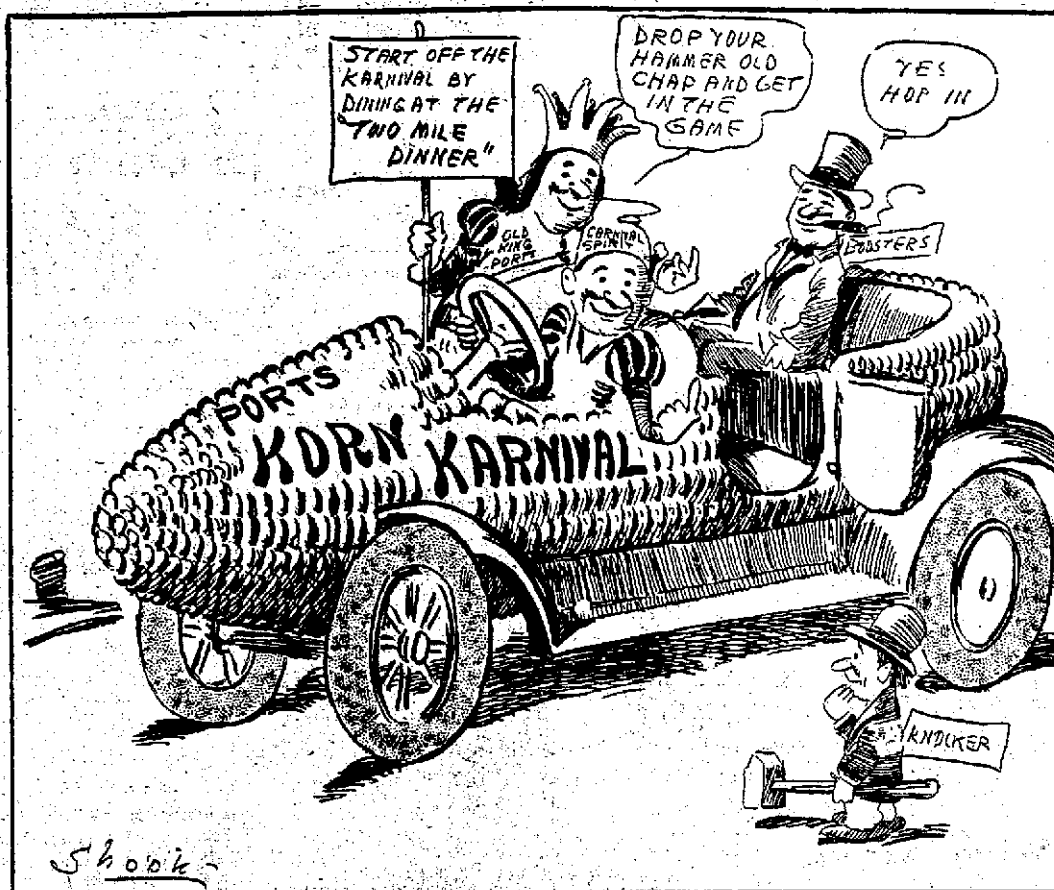

By-the-way, in one section a plan was presented that was novel and may be good—a sixteen foot section, laid half with brick and half with macadam, the brick side of brick and the other of macadam. The idea is not novel generally, and more especially in dry weather will use the brick while wagons will mostly take to the macadam.

This returned wayfarer noted that many villages and parts of the rural districts still cling to the absurd idea that oil will make good and permanent roadways. As a matter of fact the oil runs down into the lowest places, softens the earth most there and the passing auto has to creep along, slipping and sliding, bumping and jumping first to one side of the road and then the other. The muck made is intolerable and the ruin of shoes, gowns and carpets and floors.

The spell-binder of the last campaign, who said the Republican administration had completed eighty-five per cent of the new water works system in less than two years, while a Democratic administration was not half through with fifteen per cent in more than a year, must feel like burying both himself and his remarks in the flood of waters that came down from the bursted reservoir.

The Korn Karnival will begin tomorrow and you want to be in at the opening, of course.

READY TO START

On their trip into constitutionally dry Tennessee the Ohio legislators voted two to one against the McDermott liquor bill, which they themselves had passed under whip and spur, applied by Governor Willis. Was it what they saw in Tennessee, or the secret ballot that marked the sheet?

Of course, it was a great honor for our good young governor to make to a negro editor his first announcement that he was a candidate for president, but we opine what the colored men and brothers want first and most to know is where are dem state jobs?

Our unalterable opinion is that a good road is worth even the price of a temporary road.

All sorts of compliments are being paid The Times for its Karnival edition. We'll admit it was some achievement and a bit of work, but worth while all around.

The reports from the east gives support to the axiom that he who runs away lives to fight another day.

A nice, respectable man, like Mr. Garford, ought not to say such unkind things about the administration of our good young governor.

So far as our observation goes the chief point about that famous proclaimed drive of the Allies is that it doesn't drive anything.

May be it wouldn't be a bad idea to embargo Chillicothe street to automobiles during Korn Karnival week.

The Czar is sending 600,000 of his fleetest runners down to the borders of Bulgaria.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 5.—A Chinese Jim Brady is in our city illuminating the dark places and causing the good citizens to wonder what they will be seeing next. The Chinese Diamond Jim came in from Havana the other day. He had changed his name to Edilano Aton for business purposes and spoke French fluently.

He has abolished the Chinese clothes and taken to military uniforms with a sprinkling of gems all around. The uniform consisted of immaculate white trousers, creased to a razor edge, a white military jacket with gold buttons, topped by sky blue epaulets smothered in gold braid.

He wore a white military cap of Russian type, also bedecked with gold braid and a gold shield full of diamonds. His shoes were white and his manner haughty and dignified.

Harold, one of Sahary-Djelli's trained prayer rugs, went mad during a rehearsal at the Winter Garden yesterday and bit the stage director. Owing to the secrecy surrounding the affair, reporters have not learned if the director was bitten between the lobby and the proscenium or behind the scenes.

Sahary is the ginkster who comes from Persia and wouldn't set her foot on American soil. She had some Persian soil in a box with her and they carried her to her hotel in this box. It's a poor dancer anyway who can't carry her own soil. Soil is quite cheap.

F. Dana Burnett is a young poet from Cincinnati. He came to New York unheralded and unsung, but soon had Park Row paying attention to him. He joined the staff of the Evening Sun and in a short time was breaking into the magazines.

Not long ago a book of his poems was published and now he is awfully afraid that someone will find out his first name is Frank.

Vernie Hardin Porter has been forced into song writing. Porter is the Broadway story teller for a group of western magazines. Several months ago he found himself needing some ready cash. He tried scenario writing on the side and found that his only trouble was they wouldn't sell.

He was talking to Irving Berlin, who graduated from a Chinatown dance hall to easy affluence by song writing. "Why don't you try writing lyrics?" Berlin asked him. No sooner said than done. That night found Porter lyricizing his way to fame. His first song was: "Gee How I Can Love."

Harry Fox and Yansel Dolly, two popular vaudeville stars, liked the song and in a few days were singing it. And now it looks to Porter like something really has happened, or else it hasn't. That's psychology.

To keep the memory of their dead father fresh and lasting in the minds of her two little sons, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a widow, since her husband perished on the Lusitania, has personally directed the making of a bronze bust of Vanderbilt. It will be installed in the New York home.

The likeness, she has told her friends at Lenox, Mass., is so remarkable that in looking at it she often has the impression of seeing her husband alive and about to speak.

Caroline Sciarino Pietro, noted for his bronze sculptures of General Booth, former President Taft, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard and Enrico Caruso, has made a model in plastiline, from which the bronze will be cast. At a recent exhibition in the Rheinhardt galleries for the Friends of Young Artists, he was represented by a group entitled "War."

How Much A Man Is Like Old Shoes

For instance, both a sole may lose; Both have been tanned, both are made tight.

By cobblers, both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete.

And both were made to go feet; With shoes, the last is first, with man.

The first shall be last, and when the shoes

Wear out they're men dead, too; They both need healing, oft are sold.

And both in time turn all to mold; They both are trod upon and both will tread on others, nothing lonelier.

Both have their ties and both incline; When polished, in the world to shine;

They both peg out and would you choose To be a man or be his shoes?

No Flies On Capt. Johnny Dock
 Capt. Johnny Dock, Pinte Chief, formerly of Hawthorne, but now a substantial citizen of Schurz, was in town Monday and favored the Bulletin with a call. He said: "Oh, yes, I got a ranch at Schurz. But I don't care for that. I work hard and make money. I'm different most Pinte. I'm high class, educated Indian. I talk all government officers and inspectors, and they say to me like that, Johnny Dock, 'you pretty dam smart.' Well, so long. How's your wife?" Hawthorne (Nev.) Bulletin.

Big Hunt Is Over, Coming For Karnival

The Times is in receipt of a letter from Charles S. Barnes, prominent farmer of near Sargents, in which he writes that he has just concluded an enjoyable hunt for elk game in the vicinity of Bonanza, Wyoming. He was successful in landing the limit of elk.

The letter was written last Wednesday, and Mr. Barnes stated that it had rained constantly for three days before that date. The Hoback Basin was covered with about two inches of snow.

Mr. Barnes is on his way home, and expects to arrive in time to take in the Korn Karnival.

MORE OF THE RESERVOIR SAID TO BE IN DANGER

Officials Favor An Auxiliary Basin In New Location

Speedy restitution of all damage suffered by persons through the washout of the east wall of the reservoir Sunday afternoon is advocated by Mayor Adam Frick.

The mayor has called upon Curtis & Shumway, contractors, to send a man over the route where the water and earthwork passed from the hill to the lake and make a careful estimate of the damage done to property, crops, lands, buildings and other equipment to the end that those who suffered loss through the reservoir break may be properly taken care of.

Definite steps towards restoring the collapsed wall are expected to be taken immediately after the return to Portsmouth of Engineers J. F. Witmer and W. L. Watson, who have been attending court at Charleston, W. Va., as expert witnesses in a case there.

More of Reservoir Is Impelled

Mayor Frick again visited the reservoir Monday afternoon and found that the wall and roof were in danger of further collapse from a distance of about 75 ft. from the opening where the wall, floor and roof went out. Regrettable was the break, said the mayor, he was glad in a way that it happened just when it did without any loss of life. Had the break occurred at night, whole families would have been wiped out. Then too it revealed the weakness of the structure in time for it to be properly corrected.

Vice Mayor W. E. Cook and Chief Engineer John Hearnham of the water works, both favor the same kind of a plan in regard to restoring the reservoir to use.

The two officials believe it fully to reconstruct the corner of the basin that went out owing to the fill and danger of slides at that point and therefore would reduce the size and capacity of the storage basin by drawing in three sides, and having the whole structure placed on a solid base.

Favor Building Of New Reservoir

They favor the building of a second reservoir nearer the city in Brewery Hollow or in the hills to the north of the city, where many natural locations for a reservoir are to be found and provide a duplicate feeding line. In their opinion the city is bound to grow to a population of 50,000 within the next ten years and the present reservoir will not be ample to meet the needs of a city of such size.

The break did not come as much of a surprise to the residents of School Land Hollow, watching as they have been the occasional leaks of the storage basin. The various sides of the hill are almost constantly moist and slips follow every heavy rain.

Rev. William Madden had just gotten through predicting that the reservoir would not hold for a year when the break occurred. He and family and William Sparks and family had just returned from services at the little Christian church up the hollow and were looking in the direction of the reservoir when he made the remark after noticing a steady flow of water coming down the hillside. Then came the deafening roar and on-rush of waters and the two families, terrified at the sight, fled for their lives, camping on the hills for a half hour. When they returned they found their home had escaped the fury of the water. Mrs. Madden saw two little boys climbing up the hillside on their hands and knees and feared that they had drowned but later learned that they were Lee Conley's sons and had reached home safely.

Pathetic Scene At Richmond Home

Mrs. Jos. Richmond with her three little children tugging at her skirt and her baby in her arms was the most pathetic figure in the devastated hollow Monday. Their home had been wrecked 20 minutes after they had started to Stewartville to visit relatives and all of their earthly belongings were destroyed. All they possessed was the clothes on their back. As she stood gazing sadly in the direction of the mud clogged and wreckage filled ruins of what was once her happy home Mrs. Richmond burst into tears. Neighbors took turns in trying to console her. "Well there is one who will not desert us and in God I shall trust," sobbed the poor woman as she drew her little ones nearer to her. For hours she wandered aimlessly about the desolated scenes until the wailings of her hungry children drove her away to accept the hospitality of a neighbor.

The Movies

Blanche Sweet in "The Secret Orchard" At the Lyric.

Blanche Sweet is one of the rare personalities among photodrama players who refuses to be satisfied with her work of the moment or to recognize any limitations of her talent. The fact has been brought home again and again to the directors in the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company, at Hollywood, Cal., where Miss Sweet is appearing exclusively for a term of years in Lasky productions. The rise to fame of this beautiful star is a tribute to youthful ambition. She is said to have attained her highest mark as an actress in her newest role, Diana, in "The Secret Orchard," from the play by Channing Pollock, founded on the novel of the same name by Agnes and Egerion Castle. As the heroine Miss Sweet interprets a role of intricate psychology. It is her fifth starring venture in a Lasky production. Manager Mack has arranged to show this wonderful production for ten cents after-noon and night, so don't fail to see Blanche Sweet at her best today.

Nerviest Theft Is Reported, Police Clerk Loses 2 Guns

The boldest sneak thief ever has been operating around police headquarters the past few days.

Two revolvers were stolen from Police Clerk Dennis Coriell's desk. One was his own personal property, and a fine seven shooter 32 calibre blue steered gun, and the other was a small gun that was confiscated from a gun-toter, and which Dennis had spent an entire day cleaning. There is absolutely no clue to the nervy thief.

NEAR VICTIM OF A STRAY BULLET

Crockett Meade, a B. & O. S. W. car inspector, is wondering if he was the near-victim of a would-be assassin's erring aim, or some stray bullet, for he came dangerously near being shot Monday morning.

Meade was returning from Sciotoville on his railroad velocipede when as he was passing a point midway between that village and Star Yard, a section of air-hose was shot from underneath him. He was almost knocked from the car. A freight train was passing at the time and Meade was unable to tell, because of its noise, from which direction the bullet came.

It entered the hose on which he had been sitting at one end, passing through the wall of the hose and lodging within a few inches of the other end. It was a steel-jacketed bullet. Meade did not remember just in what position he had placed the hose, and this, too, made it impossible to determine the direction from which the bullet had been fired towards him. Meade resides on Market street, near Fifth.

CAME HOME IN NEW CAR

Vice Mayor William E. Cook and family returned home Saturday night from a delightful automobile trip to Cleveland in his fine Haynes touring car. They did not have the highest mishap on the trip. Mr. Cook was chiefly impressed with the superior quality of brick paved roads over macadamized roads around Cleveland.

Drill Team To Be Escort

It was announced at the meeting of Magnolia Lodge K. of P. Monday night that the drill team would act as an escort for one of the magnificent floats that will be in the Fall Parade Friday night.

FINE WEATHER IS PROMISED

Ideal October weather is the promise of Government weather forecaster William C. Devereaux, in charge of the Cincinnati district, for the Portsmouth Korn Carnival. Mr. Devereaux was in Portsmouth Tuesday on an inspection trip and, after receiving reports from his office, made the above statement in regard to weather prospects for the remainder of the week.

"This morning an area of fair and cool weather covers the entire West," said Mr. Devereaux. "The only storm area is central over the St. Lawrence valley and is moving Eastward."

"In Portsmouth this afternoon the sun will shine occasionally, but will be mostly cloudy, gradually clearing during the night and cooler. Tomorrow morning will be crisp and cool, but under the influence of sunshine during the day the temperature will rise slowly."

"All indications for Wednesday and Thursday and probably Friday and Saturday are for fair weather, with moderate temperature, almost ideal October weather."

CHERRY TREE BLOOMS AGAIN

Mrs. Charles Worley of Friendship, has one of the freak cherry trees of this county. It is over 32 years old, is in full bloom a second time, having been in bloom in the spring when it bore a number of gallons of cherries. The frost will probably catch the second crop.

3,000 Are Coming

It was stated last night by those who should know, that almost 3,000 people will make the trip to Portsmouth Thursday night, which is Iron-ton night at the Korn Carnival. The tickets will be on sale Wednesday and all are advised to get them early so as to cause no delay at the depot. Almost a thousand will make the trip from Ashland, it is understood.—Iron-tonian.

Owls Will Cut Caper In Fraternal Parade

All arrangements for the Fraternal Parade were made by the Order of Owls at its meeting Monday evening. The lodge members will assemble at the lodge hall, corner of Fifth and Chalmers streets, at 6:30 o'clock, and will march from there in a body to their place of mobilization. The Owls will wear one of the most unique costumes in the parade and will make a fine showing. They will be headed by the President of the lodge, Grover Barr. Each member will be given a ticket which will entitle him to a free chance on the gold Owl watch-charm which will be given away at the social session to be held in Seel's hall, on Second street, after the parade. The parade committee of the Owls is composed of Fred Goltz, Charles Hartman and Albert Haug, and they have perfected all of the arrangements.

BRIDGE "BUCKLES;" BONNE IN SERVICE

Contractor Henry Ruel put a good sized force of men to work early Tuesday morning clearing drift away from the temporary bridge at the mouth of the Scioto river. The water was not yet entirely off the bridge and was still too high to determine the exact shape of the structure. It has "buckled up" at the Portsmouth end, for about one-fourth its length and pulled some of the piling clear out of the ground and will in all probability have to be rebuilt. While every energy will be bent towards getting the bridge reconstructed in time for the opening of the Korn Carnival, it is hardly likely that it will be completed before Thursday morning. The ferryboat Bonne began ferry service at the Point Tuesday morning.

ELKS INDOOR FAIR IS A "LIVE WIRE" SPOT

The Elks' Indoor Fair, in their new quarters in the Play House building, started off with a hurrah Monday evening, insuring the success of the enterprise during the week.

In spite of the bad weather, a large crowd turned out and enjoyed thoroughly the many attractions of the fair. The second and third floors were in gala attire to receive them, and the visitors marveled at the wonderful transformation that has taken place in the upper part of the building.

Dancing was one of the popular diversions of the evening, the lodge hall being utilized as a dance hall. The hall was artistically decorated and presented a pleasing appearance to the eye. Music was furnished by the Journey Trio.

Attractive booths were located in the various rooms of the second and third floors, and all of them did a thriving business. Among the booths are: Sam Williams' Orphanage; Orrin E. Oakes' trick polar bears; Paul Davidson, candy; Von Klinkenbeard's German village; Karl Zoellner's financial booth; Harry Revare's flower booth; Paul Esselborn's fish pond; William J. Meyer's supply store; and several refreshment booths.

The feature attractions included Dr. Mytinger's animal show and mammified being, and Bud Gableman's wonderful horse, Eopl.

Booths that were not ready last night that will be opened tonight are: L. P. Haldeman and Charles Hall's Charlie Chaplin shooting gallery; Alfred Richardson's Country Store; Stanley McColl's novelties; and the tea room, conducted by Mrs. Samuel Horchow.

A comedy feature was the squad of police who preserved order during the evening, headed by Sidney Anderson, chief, and including the following force: Floyd Fuller, Frank Rawson and Nick Shively. Many were the offenders that came under the police ban, and stern justice was meted out by the judge, George McMahon. A big steel cage is placed at one end of the dance hall, where the offenders are imprisoned until their cases are called by the trial court.

The building is brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated and prom-

TWO BLANKETS STOLEN FROM A CLOTHES LINE

Two fine bed blankets stolen from a clothes-line in the rear yard of Frank E. Duda's home, No. 1158 Fourth street, Monday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, were recovered by Police Chief B. E. Allen Monday night.

Neighbors saw a strange man enter the yard. He calmly removed the blankets from the line, and carefully folding them up, placed them under his arm and walked out the front way. Mr. Duda reported the theft about 5 o'clock. Within a few hours Chief Allen, who had been given a description of the blankets, located them at a Sinton street home, where they had been sold for fifty cents. A good clue was obtained as to the identity of the man who sold them and an arrest is expected to follow.

Will Serve Guests On Sixth Street

Those who have purchased tickets from the Holy Redeemer church for the Two Mile dinner Wednesday should bear in mind that they will be served on West Sixth street between Washington and Court.

Arrangements have been made to care for all guests in a splendid manner, but a rule that will be strictly enforced will be that the first to come will be the first served.

It is to be one of the most popular places of amusement during the carnival week.

The fair will be on in full blast again this evening and will continue all week. The public is cordially invited.

Jews In U. S. and England.

There are more Jews in this country than there are in England by many tens of thousands. In both the United States and England the prejudice against the Jews, as compared with that in some other countries, is light.

WOMEN OF RIGA, RUSSIA, AID IN THE DEFENSE OF THEIR CITY

Russian peasant women digging trenches for the outer defenses of Riga.

Though military experts say that the Russian artillery deserves the credit for the remarkable stand the czar's fighters are making against the battering ram of von Hindenburg's forces, it should not be overlooked that in the defense of Riga, the most important Russian port on the Baltic, the women are doing more than their share in defending the city.

KILLED BY SHELL WHEN TRYING TO CUT WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS

The two Italians who are seen lying dead in the extraordinary positions in which they fell when hit, made a heroic attempt to cut the wire entanglements of an Austrian trench. They had almost succeeded in their task when an Austrian shell ended their existence.
